

LBJ Welcomes Peace Move, Hints No Tax Hike Ahead

Thinks U.S. Can Afford 'Both Wars'

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday the nation could afford the cost of the Vietnam war and at the same time "continue to do what is necessary at home."

Replying to a question at a New Year's Eve news conference at the LBJ Ranch, Johnson said: "Yes, I think the nation can afford to continue as we have to fight wars on both fronts."

Johnson said he felt "we ought to take all the water that we can out of the budget," but "we must not neglect the health and education needs of our children" or "overlook the needs of our cities" or "bring progress to a stop."

"We must continue our efforts to reduce poverty," he added. "We must continue our war against our ancient enemies just as we are continuing it in South Vietnam — until aggression ceases."

On the Vietnam war, Johnson said he was "very agreeable and rather anxious" to meet Hanoi representatives "anywhere, any time" in an effort to transfer the war to the conference table.

He said, "We will be glad to meet any one more than half way, in so far as talking instead of fighting is concerned."

Asked about new British proposals for peace talks, Johnson said: "We appreciate the interest of all peace-loving nations in arranging a cease-fire, in attempting to bring the disputing parties together, and in an effort to work out a conference where various views can be exchanged."

He said Secretary-General U. Thant of the United Nations had been encouraged in every way to take leadership and use the full influence of his office "to stop the violence on both sides, to bring an end to the total war by both sides."

Asked about reports of civilian casualties from U.S. bombings in North Vietnam, Johnson said that orders were to bomb "only military targets and that he believed they have been carried out."

But, Johnson went on, "there will be civilian casualties in connection with the bombing of military targets. There are civilian casualties taking place every day — some this morning — in South Vietnam. I am concerned with casualties in both South Vietnam and North Vietnam. I wish that all our people would be equally as concerned."

He added that he regretted (Turn To Page Nine)

Christian A. Herter Dead At 71

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter, 71, one of America's leading figures in foreign affairs, died at his home Friday night.

Secretary of state during the final 20 months of the Eisenhower administration and Republican governor of Massachusetts and congressman before that, Herter was a special trade representative for President Johnson at the time of his unexpected death.

The cause of his death was not immediately known.

The funeral was set for 11 a.m. Tuesday in St. John's Episcopal Church here. A memorial service will be held Wednesday noon in Trinity Church in Boston, his former home.

The President and Herter's successor, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, led the nation in mourning the man whose public service in international and domestic affairs dated back to World War I.

Voicing "great personal sorrow," Johnson said Herter's career "spanned a period which saw this nation emerge from a century of isolation to take a place of leadership on the world scene."

"From the day in 1916 when he took up a post as attaché in the American Embassy in Berlin, to the leadership of the Kennedy Round negotiations to expand and liberalize world trade — which he was exercising to the day of his death — he participated in the events of our time and shaped them," Johnson said.

Rusk praised Herter's "life-time of selfless and brilliant" (Turn To Page Nine)

37 Incidents Mar New Year's Truce

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Combat incidents officially blamed on the Communists are drawing blood in the New Year truce just as they did during the 48-hour Christmas cease-fire.

In the gravest of 37 shootings reported after the truce orders had gone into effect at 7 a.m. Saturday, an enemy battalion about 500 strong attacked a company of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in the central highlands 280 miles northeast of Saigon. They struck with mortars and small arms for nearly five hours.

The Americans, reported here to have been in a defensive position for the break in hostilities, fought back until the Communists broke contact at dusk. A spokesman said casualties within the company, normally numbering about 150 men, were light. There was no immediate word on losses, if any, among the enemy.

Ahead there were fresh efforts to promote peace talks.

President Johnson announced at the LBJ Ranch in Texas he was delighted to get Britain's new proposal for a three-power conference, which would engage the diplomats of Washington, Saigon and Hanoi. He said the United States would attend if Hanoi would.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown urged an immediate meeting for peace talks in messages dispatched Friday night and offered "appropriate facilities in Hong Kong or in any other suitable British territory."

There was no immediate comment from Hanoi. President Ho Chi Minh's Communist regime has spurned previous overtures. At the United Nations, Secretary-General U. Thant again called for an unconditional halt in the bombing of North Vietnam as essential to prepare the way for peace negotiations. He urged an extension of the New Year truce, scheduled to expire at 7 a.m. Monday—6 p.m. EST Sunday. Thant said this would provide a welcome respite for private and diplomatic explorations despite "sporadic breaches... on account of lack of control and communication."

U.S. briefing officers declined to characterize the Red operations as truce violations. Their stand was the same as at Christmas, when the allies reported 122 incidents. The official line is that, though there were separate declarations of intent by the two sides to observe the cease-fire, there was no signed, formal truce.

The year end found another build-up in American combat strength via three troopships that anchored early Saturday off Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon (Turn to Page Nine)

Tito Frees Former Vice President

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Milovan Djilas, who turned on Yugoslavia's communism after rising to the vice presidency, walked out of prison Saturday, freed by President Tito.

"Strict but correct," was the way the man who once was considered Tito's political heir described his imprisonment at Sremska Mitrovica, in northwest Serbia.

"I was in a room with elderly criminals, illiterates and some murderers, but it did not bother me," he said after his release.

Djilas, 55, had served four years and eight months of a nine-year sentence on a charge of disclosing state secrets in a book published in New York, "Conversations with Stalin."

The regime three times before had sentenced to prison the man who once had fought alongside Tito as a partisan against the Nazis in World War II and then climbed to positions in the Communist party and government.

Djilas disclosed to reporters that while in prison he had completed a historical feature, "The Lost Battle," and translated Milton's "Paradise Lost." He said he had begun work two years ago on a philosophical novel, "Worlds and Bridges," and it would take at least another year to complete it.

Refusing to discuss politics, he said his immediate plans were to have New Year's dinner with his wife and son. His wife, Stefania, and his son, Aleksa, 14, met him outside prison. Mrs. Djilas wept. (Turn To Page Nine)

Thant Urges Halting Raids On N. Viet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant appealed to the United States Saturday to take the initiative in the quest for peace in Vietnam by ordering an unconditional halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg quickly replied by renewing a U.S. offer to end the bombing the moment North Vietnam gives assurances, private or otherwise, that the Communists will take matching steps toward peace.

Thant's appeal was contained in a letter to Goldberg which also called on all parties to the conflict to extend the 48-hour New Year truce, now scheduled to end at 6 p.m. EST Sunday — 7 a.m. Monday Vietnam time.

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle of France said Saturday night the United States must withdraw from Vietnam and end what he called an "unjust" and "detestable" war.

De Gaulle, in his toughest anti-American Vietnam war statement to date, said the conflict "results from the armed intervention of the United States on the territory of Vietnam."

He did not put any of the blame on the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas or North Vietnam.

The U.S. ambassador welcomed the proposal for an extension of the truce. U.S. sources said one of the reasons for the speed of Goldberg's reply was to permit a similar acceptance by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong — if they desired.

Goldberg's reply was cleared in a round of intensive consultations between the State Department and President Johnson at Johnson City, Tex. The United States urged Thant to use every possible means to find out what Hanoi would be prepared to do if the bombing is halted.

The U.S. letter said any extension of the present truce "would obviously include a cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam as well as an end to all hostilities and organized violence in the South."

Not All Proposed Safety Measures Can Be Met: GM

DETROIT (AP) — Assuming "reasonable interpretation," General Motors Corp. reported Saturday it can meet 10 proposed government safety standards in its 1968 model cars, and with minor modifications in requirements could meet six more.

The company, which sells more than half the automobiles built in the United States, said it could "comply with major portions" of two other standards among the total of 23 proposed.

But GM said five other standards could not be incorporated in next year's models and (Turn To Page Nine)

Boeing, GE Get SST Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday selected Boeing to build the airframe of America's version of the supersonic transport plane (SST) and General Electric to make the engine. This action climaxed 30 months of intensive four-way competition.

However, the Federal Aviation Agency announced no decision on the really giant step — when to go ahead with building a prototype of the SST designed to carry 300 passengers at 1,800 miles an hour.

The government's contracts with the Boeing Co. and General Electric Co. will be extended while they continue development, testing and refinement of the designs. And the FAA will continue its studies of the economic aspects of the federally financed program.

The goal is to get a prototype into the air late in 1969 or early 1970, with two prototypes available. The hope is that the U.S. SST will be flying passengers by 1974.

Involved is a race of sorts to maintain American air transport superiority in the face of the British-French development of a supersonic transport—the Concorde—which is smaller than the U.S. version and slower, at 1,400 miles. It is still under development but is expected to be flying passengers two or three years ahead of the U.S. SST.

Also in the picture is the Soviet Union's supersonic TU-144. The FAA announcement came as President Johnson was telling a news conference at his Texas ranch that whether to give the go-ahead on building the SST was receiving top consideration in the executive branch.

He added that it certainly would be given attention in Congress, which already has provided $311 million to support design of the prototypes. The ultimate federal costs of the development program have been placed at close to $1 billion.

Johnson could give the decision when he submits his budget to Congress next month.

Gen. William F. McKee, FAA administrator, made the announcement.

PRESS FOR BAN ON COW SLAUGHTERING

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Many shops closed in New Delhi and other cities in India Saturday on a strike call by groups agitating for a nationwide ban on cow slaughter.

Police in New Delhi arrested several dozen persons as they attempted to demonstrate protesting the killing of cows regarded as sacred by Hindus. A demonstration erupted into bloody rioting Nov. 7.

Six Rembrandt, Rubens Paintings Stolen In London

LONDON (AP) — A gang of burglars with brains enough to know the value of eight paintings in a collection of 300 got away Saturday with possibly the biggest art theft in history — in the neighborhood of $5 million worth.

The burglary was committed sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning at the Dulwich Gallery, in a quiet suburb of southwest London. The loot included three Rembrandts and three Rubens.

The gang found one weak spot in the gallery's security. Sent from Dulwich, measured by land yard detectives said the square and could easily be carried under the arm.

The burglars were "Girl plenty of time to complete their art" and "Portrait of Jacob de Ghyen." The Rubens were Christmas-New Year's holidays. "Three Women with Cornucopia," "St. Barbara" and "Three Graces."

Also taken were an Elsheimer, "Susannah and the Elders," on a copper panel, and Gerard Dow's "Lady Playing at the Virginals." Some were canvases, others were on wood panels.

About half the gallery's well-known collection of 600 paintings were on show at the time. The burglars clearly knew which were worth the most.

In calling the burglary the biggest of its kind in the known history of art collections, authorities quoted the Guinness book of records. Therein is listed a $2.8-million theft of 32 drawings from a museum at Besancon, France, just a year ago. They were recovered by police in Switzerland last May.

All airports, docks and railway stations were under immediate surveillance, but the criminals obviously had a flying start.

The enormity of the loss raised the immediate question of the motive, the market for such well-recognized paintings, and just who might pay the burglars.

Thompson Brooke, secretary of the Royal Academy, described it as a "major disaster" and added: "It is impossible to say what the motive could be. All these pictures are well known — far too well known to sell them in the ordinary way."

It is difficult to see what the motive could be unless some sort of ransom is going to be involved. This has happened before.

In 1961, Goya's "Duke of Wellington" was stolen from the National Art Gallery and for a short time held for ransom.

Eventually the thief returned it through a railway luggage department, and the generally accepted belief was that he only wanted to protest the use of government funds to buy such pictures in order to retain them in Britain.

The eight paintings taken from the Dulwich Gallery were: three Rembrandts and three Rubens.

Russ Ship Sinks, Fear 50 Killed

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Approximately 50 Russian seamen were lost Saturday when a 239-foot Soviet refrigerator ship went down in the Bering Sea approximately 35 miles north of Unimak Island in the Aleutians, the Coast Guard reported.

Fifty other survivors from the vessel were reported picked up by other Soviet vessels, the 17th Coast Guard District headquarters said.

The Coast Guard identified the vessel only as "refrigerator 10" and said it was part of a fishing fleet operating off the Alaska coast.

A radioed SOS was picked up by the Coast Guard. The broadcast reported the ship had a hole in the engine room.

A Reeve Aleutian Airline plane which flew over the scene shortly after the sinking reported a large amount of debris in the water. The pilot of the plane reported seeing an overturned lifeboat and a large oil slick.

The Coast Guard said one of its airplanes arrived at the scene and was maintaining communications with the Soviet fleet commander aboard the ship Suzdal.

The Suzdal was the Soviet vessel that picked up most of the survivors, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Volunteer Cast Will Present The Advocate

A group of volunteer players, headed by Fred J. Wassell, will give two performances of the Robert Noah play, "The Advocate," in Jacksonville on January 8. The play is jointly sponsored by the Jacksonville State Hospital and MacMurray College Department of Speech and Theatre Arts.

Dr. Philip Decker of MacMurray College has offered the group the facilities of the MacMurray College Theatre for the two performances. The afternoon performance is scheduled for 2 p.m. and will be for patients only. An 8 p.m. Sunday evening performance will be for the community of Jacksonville.

A $1.50 per person donation will be requested for the evening performance. Tickets are available at the office of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, 207 East Morgan, or may be reserved by phone, Jacksonville 245-2174.

"The Advocate" was originally written by Robert Noah as a television drama, but was presented on Broadway in 1963, starring Paul Stevens and James Daly. Set in various places in and around Boston, the drama covers the 1923-1927 period in the famous Sacco-Vanzetti case.

For more than 40 years, controversy has raged about this famous trial. Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were Italian immigrants, professed anarchists convicted of a murder committed during a shoe factory holdup. History has never decided whether they were convicted by proof of facts beyond reosnable doubt or by prejudice. The four years spanned by the play cover the attempts by their attorney to appeal.

Wassell, the group's director, was recently named Teacher of the Year for the State of Illinois. He teaches in the New Berlin School System.

Major Faugust is a munitions instructor at Ft. McClellan. Major and Mrs. R. E. Faugust and family of Ft. McClellan, Ala. have returned home after visiting Mrs. Faugust's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Fanning and Major Faugust's aunts, Hulda and Nelle Faugust.

TIME FLIES!

In a few weeks, Elliott State Bank will be 101. Last year at this time we were preparing to light the candles on our centennial cake and launch a year-long celebration of our 100th anniversary. It has been a memorable year for us and a nostalgic one. We enjoyed the opportunity to sponsor events which highlighted the history of our area and the people who shaped its destiny.

We welcomed many of our old friends during the year and made many new ones. We indulged in a fond look back, and took a long step forward with the decision to install an IBM 1240 computer, with the capacity to serve as a computer service center for our business and agricultural community.

We remembered "one to grow on" when we placed the candles on our cake and had record growth in 1966, establishing new highs in deposits, loans, total assets, capital accounts, and in the number of people we serve.

Time flies, but our purpose remains constant — to serve well, with integrity and imagination, the people, farms, business firms, industries and institutions that comprise our community. In our second century, as in the first 100 years, this will be our goal.

County Statements To Reflect Higher Tax Multiplier

This is Morgan county's quadrennial assessment year for purposes of reviewing and setting the assessments of all real and personal property.

The equalized valuations of the more than 29,000 parcels of real and personal property will be increased approximately 13 percent due to a tax multiplier set by the Illinois Revenue Department.

All property assessed in Morgan county for 1965 totaled about $154 million. With the increased multiplier, the assessed valuation of the county amounts to about $180 million for the year 1966.

Supervisor of Assessments Lawrence J. Quinlan said the multiplier received from the state was pegged at 1.4286 as compared with 1.2658 for the previous four years.

Members of the Board of County Commissioners have already taken steps to appeal the increased multiplier on the grounds that sufficient funds are now being received to carry on all forms of government in Morgan county.

In many cases, governmental units such as schools, municipalities and the various district authorities are not at the absolute maximum of their taxing authority.

Some, however, are asking for more money than their equalized valuation can possibly supply. This is particularly true in the case of road districts and the corporate levies for villages in the county. Taxpayers also may breathe a sigh of relief in the knowledge that most villages and municipalities do not ask for the full taxing authority for such things as garbage disposal and other specific governmental functions.

Many of these taxing units will benefit from the higher multiplier which will remain in effect for the next four years.

Why The Multiplier
The multiplier was applied under terms of legislation passed in 1958 which gives the State Department of Revenue power to bring assessments in any county in Illinois up to reasonable levels in relation to surrounding counties.

All Deeds Reviewed
The state Department of Revenue checks every deed recorded in Morgan county. In cases where revenue stamps are affixed, the price of the property is duly noted and recorded. In cases where revenue stamps are not used, the department sends questionnaires to both the buyer and seller asking for certain information about the property.

In addition, the department checks the assessment of the property prior to the sale, then the year following the sale to see what changes were made in view of the selling price.

After throwing out selling prices such as those recorded from father to son and other special types of sales involving special considerations, the department sets up a sales ratio for Morgan county.

Basically, this is the method of finding a tax multiplier. First you compute what the "fair market value" would be using the assessment on the property for the year previous to the sale. Then, you simply arrive at a number which when multiplied times the "fair market value" gives an answer equal to the selling price recorded in the deed book. In the case of Morgan county, this averages about 1.4 times the "fair market value."

An example of how this works is one particular parcel in the Westgate area that has been sold seven times during the past nine years. Each purchaser has paid more for the property than the previous owner.

Quinlan said the selling prices of property have increased during the past few years but added that he felt all property was assessed equally in relation to other property of comparable quality.

The value of real and personal property has increased about $14 million during the past four years. This does not include new buildings and improvements to tax-exempt institutions located within the county. The increased assessed valuation has amounted to from $3 to $5 million annually over the past four years.

The first multiplier was imposed on Morgan county property in 1958 on taxes payable in 1959. The rate then was 1.3158. Last year's rate of 1.2658 was the lowest since 1958.

This year's tax multiplier is under appeal and will no doubt be decided during the next two weeks. Otherwise the tax extensions will be late and cause confusion in the collection.

Quinlan said there are 17 counties in the state operating on the commission form of government. He said 11 out of 12 reporting had an increase in the multiplier. County governments using the supervisor form of government will have their quadrennial assessment next year.

Prospects are good for paying more taxes in 1967. The increases will be primarily from Jacksonville's higher levy along with several school districts within the county due to bond issues and other increases sought by various governmental units.

'Laboratory School' Is Newest Addition For I.S.D.

Dark brick and glass highlights the new "laboratory school" structure at the Illinois School for the Deaf in Jacksonville. Because pre-school and multiply handicapped deaf children actually live in the new building in which they have classes, there is a greater opportunity for "rest and recreation" breaks during the school day. Educators feel this is highly important for keeping up the children's interest and attention in their studies.

Called Most Comprehensive For Deaf Child

Because the Illinois School for the Deaf in Jacksonville was founded in 1839, making it the first state-supported facility for the handicapped in Illinois, one might expect residents of this Morgan county community to regard the red brick buildings, the neat cottages, even the faculty and students as a familiar, unchanging part of the Jacksonville scenery.

But there have been so many new and exciting programs developed at ISD in the last few years that it would be impossible for anyone to take the school for granted. And the latest innovation at the institution, operated by the state Department of Children and Family Services, will have far-reaching effects for deaf children in Illinois for decades to come.

The "something new" this time is the construction and staffing of a "laboratory school" which will enable ISD to provide one of the most comprehensive programs ever devised for the education of the deaf child.

Classroom Residence
The recently completed two-story laboratory school is a combination classroom - residence building that provides modern facilities for three unique programs: parent-pupil tutoring, pre-school classes for three to five-year-old deaf youngsters, and a special unit for multiply handicapped children whose deafness is regarded as the major barrier to successful education.

Thirty-eight children (5-14 years of age) are enrolled in the multiply handicapped unit and 18 youngsters are enrolled for pre-school instruction.

The new building is designed with two wings, featuring dark brick and glass, joined by a center lobby. A wing adjacent to the ISD administration building consists of residential apartments for children on the lower level and 11 classrooms, and an arts-crafts room on the second floor. Three classrooms, designed for pre-school children, have outside balcony play areas surrounded by high guard rails.

Other Handicaps
There are eight classrooms available for instruction of deaf children who have other handicapping conditions. As with the pre-school children, maximum use is made of audio-visual teaching machines, and each room used for instruction of the multiply handicapped has three auto-instructional teaching stations. Currently these stations are equipped for use of slide and film machines, but the building is designed so that computerized closed-circuit television can be installed at each station.

The second wing features residential apartments accommodating 20 pre-school children, a large multi-purpose room (for group meetings, physical education, rhythm classes), offices, and a conference room.

REMEMBER 79 NEEDY WHITE HALL CHILDREN

WHITE HALL—Mrs. Phyllis Dawdy was chairman of the gift committee for the V.P.W. Auxiliary to Post No. 7684 for delivery of Christmas gifts to needy children of the community. A total of 79 children were remembered, representing 22 families. Others on the committee were Mrs. Dona Fisher, and Mrs. Marge Tribble and they were assisted in the work by the president, Mrs. Marjorie McGlasson, Mrs. Mamie Davis, Mrs. Gertie Davis and Mrs. Harriet Printy. This is a yearly project of the Auxiliary members.

ONE CAR ACCIDENT
KILIS ALORTON WOMAN
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — An Alorton, Ill., woman was injured fatally Saturday when a car hit a utility pole on old Lincoln Trail east of St. Louis. She was Mrs. Pete F. Schwoebel, 37.

Her husband suffered minor injuries.

Audio-visual aids, many of which are prepared by the research staff of the School for the Deaf, are woven into the classroom instruction of children with hearing handicaps. The machines are operated by the students themselves, enabling them to work at their own speed and check answers as they move from one work sequence to another.

able distance from the Jacksonville campus. In these sessions, the teacher spends three hours a day for two consecutive days, providing support for the parent 12 On Staff

Twelve staff persons are assigned to the new building, including six teachers in the unit for multiply handicapped children, three instructors for pre-schoolers, two-tutors, and a supervisor. This is a high concentration of talent to serve only 10-12 per cent of the total school population (about 465 boys and girls from throughout the state), but Dr. Kenneth Mangan, ISD superintendent, believes it will pay big dividends.

"The only way we can really get through to multiply handicapped children is by small group instruction and plenty of individual help," Dr. Mangan explained. "And the parent-pupil tutoring and pre-school classes will insure a good start for those deaf children who eventually be attending our regular school classes or will be served by a special education unit in a local school."

Gradual Process
According to Dr. Mangan, the school's academic program has been in a gradual "streamlining" process for several years, and emphasis has been given to making educational services available to the deaf child as soon as he can respond to instruction.

After a young child is evaluated by audiological, psychological and social services staff, he is assigned to a parent-pupil tutor for either diagnostic teaching or regular parent-pupil counseling.

There are two variations of the parent-pupil tutoring program. One is a weekly session for families who live in the Jacksonville area, in which an experienced teacher spends an hour working with a single child and his parent, interpreting the child's needs and suggesting ways that the parent can stimulate greater learning and communication.

Family Program
The other program is conducted on a monthly basis for families living at a considerable distance from the school. The parent-pupil program is designed to help the child and his parent, interpreting the child's needs and suggesting ways that the parent can stimulate greater learning and communication.

Children may be referred to the school for clinical evaluation and the parent-pupil program as soon as a hearing impairment is suspected. Ideally, the child and one or both parents will have the opportunity to be evaluated by the clinical services team, attend the annual Institute for Parents of Pre-School Deaf Children, and then

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week flouted one of the strongest traditions in Wall Street, that of the year-end rally.

The market fell each of the four trading days in the holiday-shortened week.

In the previous 20 years, the market had fallen only twice, in 1948 and 1953, in the week between Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve. Those losses were small ones.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 60 stocks dropped 4.8 to 291.2.

The loss meant, analysts said, that the usual flush of year-end reinvestment demand did not materialize after tax-loss selling appeared to be exhausted. The big institutional investors were, to a great extent, still waiting.

They were waiting, said analysts, for clearer signs as to whether President Johnson will ask for a tax increase and, if so, whether Congress will grant it.

Of 1,583 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, losers outnumbered gainers by 970 to 498.

Volume for the four-day trading week, cut short by the Monday holiday, was 32,684,570 shares compared with 37.9 million for the full five-day trading week previous.

If there was any encouragement to the investment-minded, it was that American Telephone, the most widely held stock of all, won enough confidence so that it emerged as the most active stock and with a gain of 3/8.

Considerable havoc was wrought, however, among many of the glamor stocks. Among them, SCM lost 8 points, Itel 6 1/2 and Magnavox 2 1/4.

rate, if applied uniformly, would cost the average water user about $1.55 per month.

Variations will likely appear on the rate schedule. Presently, one industry is paying in excess of one dollar per 1,000 gallons of water usage due to the type, quantity and treatment necessary for the waste products. Other businesses, such as a car wash, would require very little, if any, treatment of the waste water. The rate structure will very likely vary according to the type of usage. All rates, however, must produce an average of 31-cents per 1,000 gallons of water used in order to repay the bonds.

Water rates will roughly increase between 15 and 20 percent according to an engineering report on finances. The final rate will be decided by the council and depend on financing of the water department improvements.

Mayor Holkenbrink said placing the sewer and water departments on a paying basis was a progressive step forward. He said the city's utilities will soon have sufficient capacity to handle considerable residential and industrial growth for future years.

He said tax funds would not be used in the process. He said the entire cost of the improvements would be paid by those who use the services.

"more engineering knowledge than is currently available" will be needed to incorporate them in the future.

GM expressed its views in a six-page letter and a 172-page report to Dr. William Haddon Jr., administrator of the government's new National Traffic Safety Agency. The agency discussed proposed 1968-model standards Dec. 1.

Executives of Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler and American Motors corps. previously criticized publicly the proposals. Chairman Henry Ford II said his company might have to shut down some assembly lines if forced to meet them all in 1968.

Ford, Chrysler and AMC are expected to file formal comments with Haddon next Tuesday.

Haddon said in Washington he is pleased the various companies are submitting detailed comments, but that his agency would have no other comment before the Jan. 3 filing date.

Haddon is scheduled to announce the government's final list of requirements Jan. 31, and said his agency will spend most of next month evaluating company responses.

While GM's letter, by Harry F. Barr, vice president-engineering staff, said it was being submitted in the "context of cooperation and understanding," its proposal-by-proposal rundown termed parts or all of 20 standards either impracticable or unreasonable.

And at one point Barr's letter said: "In evaluating proposed new safety standards, consideration must be given to whether the anticipated safety value is commensurate with the additional price the customer will have to pay."

"Also," he continued, "the immediate requirement of certain safety attachments which require passenger participation, such as shoulder belts, must be evaluated on the basis of future technological development designed to increase the level of public acceptance."

Barr said in the case of some proposed standards "there is simply not enough lead time to get them into 1968 models."

Segregation

Orleans upheld stiffened desegregation guidelines issued last March to determine eligibility of school districts for federal school aid. School districts that had been desegregating at a pace allowed by court orders now will be subject to the new rule for a faster pace, officials said.

The court ordered seven districts involved in the suit to desegregate all grades by next fall and speed up faculty desegregation.

"The clock has ticked the last tick for tokenism and delay in the name of deliberate speed," the court said.

Gardner said the 1967 guidelines were approximately the same as those issued in March 1964 and he expressed confidence that they and the court decision would speed progress in the South.

Then, in answer to a reporter's question, Gardner said the court order was being analyzed to decide how it affected the Northern de facto segregation situation—segregation because many Northern city neighborhoods are all-Negro or all-white and consequently the schools are racially segregated by reason of geography.

Gardner went no further than this in his news conference, but his assistant on civil rights matters, F. Peter Libassi, said Saturday in an interview the Northern situation was under increased scrutiny.

In explaining the new guidelines, Gardner said the key change in the 1967 rules compared with those of 1966 was the extending of the time period during which a school district that was operating under a "freedom of choice" plan might conduct free choice enrollment.

During this period students may designate the school they want to attend during the next school year. For 1967-68 the free-choice period may be any time between Jan. 1 and April 1. This year the choice period was between March 1 and April 30.

service," including his performance "with great skill and devotion" in the intricate job as chief American negotiator in the long discussions with foreign countries over a new round of tariff cuts.

President John F. Kennedy gave this assignment to Herter in 1962. The so-called Kennedy Round of negotiations is still going on, with expectations that it will be concluded next year.

An advocate of bipartisanship in foreign policy, of closer transatlantic ties and of liberalized world trade, Herter was undersecretary of state when the chief architect of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy, John Foster Dulles, resigned as secretary because of incurable cancer. Herter moved into the top post April 10, 1959, and served there until President Dwight D. Eisenhower left in January 1961.

A kindly, soft-spoken man with a Boston gentleman's manner and accent to match, Herter was much loved by friends and co-workers.

Arthritis in his hips, which doctors attributed to his fast growth in youth to a lean 6-foot-5 height, caused him great pain if he stood or walked for long periods. He often used crutches.

Herter was virtually born on the international scene in Paris, March 28, 1885, as the child of artist parents who were studying in the French capital. He learned fluent French in his early education there and picked up German, too.

After graduating from Harvard cum laude in 1915, he got his first diplomatic appointment as attaché in the American Embassy in Berlin. Later he traveled with Herbert Hoover in European relief work.

During the 1920s Herter went into journalism in Boston and also lectured on international relations at Harvard. Then he went into politics, first winning election to the Massachusetts Legislature as a Republican in 1930. After 12 years, part of the time as speaker of the House, he switched to the U.S. House of Representatives, where he served another decade.

Herter ran for governor of Massachusetts in 1952 and won two terms despite Democratic strength in the state. He was an early supporter of Eisenhower for president.

The Bowling Scene

by Sandy Petersen

Holiday-limited bowling league action last week witnessed few changes in circuit standings, with neither city-wide nor individual league highs being recorded.

George Manker's 875 series in Scratch Classic League play highlighted the week along with Steve Hill's 254 outing in the Town and Country loop.

Manker's four-game total rated the third best mark this season behind Russ Zulauf's 892 and an 889 by Gerald Lacey.

Hill's feat came during Town and Country League play which saw Crown Finance up its 2 1/2 game advantage to 3-games despite the high game (1106) and series (3041) shooting of previous second running Mark's Barber Shop.

Mark's suffered a 1-2 night, allowing Budweiser (3-0) to move into the second slot. Bocky Smith netted high series with a nifty 611.

Manker's 875 came on games of 223, 220, 205 and 227 and helped lift the Bowling Center to a 10-game spread over the 3-Man Scratch Classic League field.

Sixth ranking Powell's Body Shop copped the high series with a 2248, while Jim's Recreation netted 615 for top game honors. Fred Masoury's Fred Olsen rolled the high game: 252.

W.J.L. Radio remained two games out in front in the Merchants League last week despite a 1-2 outing. Olson's Cleaners, fifth in the tight race, amassed 783, 813, 757—2353 for team honors, while Ruth Darush picked up the series best with a 155, 202, 157—514.

Mildred Slocum copped high game with a 208.

George Powell put together games of 224, 174, 197 and 228 for a superb 823 outing to lead Powell's Body Shop to the high series total in Three-Man Handicap League action.

Powell's gained the feat with a 2265 count, while Bowling Center took the game best—607.

Besco overcame Wipco 3-1 to replace the latter unit in the second slot, 4 1/2-games behind the Bowling Center. Bob Drumm's 241 game rated high.

A 2-1 fairing kept 0-1 atop the Kordite Women's League charts last week. Team honors went to B with a 2378 set, and D-1 on an 832 game.

Gert Lambert paced all scorers with a 185 game and 485 series.

Iowa Boosts Potential In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP)—Holiday basketball play was less than a roaring success for Big Ten teams, but it did boost the potential of Iowa's Hawkeyes in the conference race which starts full blast Saturday, Jan. 7.

While eight Big Ten clubs struggled through five tournaments without particular distinction to a combined 10-12 record, Iowa spent the week impressively scoring two victories over Missouri Valley Conference foes.

Coach Ralph Miller's well-balanced Hawkeyes downed defending MVC champion Cincinnati 78-69 Saturday night after thumping Wichita 94-76 Wednesday night. Cincinnati had won eight straight and was No. 7 in the AP's national poll before succumbing to alert Iowa in the Chicago Stadium.

Iowa Hosts Indiana

Thus Iowa will carry a 7-2 outside record and a six-game winning streak against Indiana (6-3) in their conference opener Saturday.

Saturday's conference card also includes Michigan State (5-3) at Illinois (6-2); Northwestern (4-4) at Michigan (6-4); Ohio State (6-2) at Minnesota (4-5); and Wisconsin (4-5) at Purdue (6-2).

Two non-conference games preceded Saturday's first full league round with Chicago Loyola at Minnesota Tuesday and Marquette at Wisconsin Wednesday.

One conference game already has been played. On Dec. 19, Illinois defeated Wisconsin, 87-74.

That was before Illinois was hit by the athletic aid scandal that knocked scoring leader Rich Jones and 6-9 Ron Dunlap out of the lineup.

However, the Illini survived the suspension blow surprisingly well, winning four of five starts as sophomore Dave Scholtz blossomed into an excellent first-line performer.

Illini 3rd In Meet

Illinois took third place in the UCLA-dominated Los Angeles Classic this week, its only setback in three tourney starts being a 73-72 shading by Southern California.

It now appears that Iowa and Illinois may be the teams to beat in a Big Ten race which still figures to be wide open despite recent slumps by Michigan State and Northwestern, erstwhile strong favorites.

Michigan State was bumped off by Villanova and Bowling Green in the Quaker City tourney, while after opening with a 62-60 conquest of St. John's, Northwestern lost to Providence.

Northwestern lost to Providence, 62-60, and Rhode Island in the New York Holiday Festival tourney.

Casper Overdied

Don Perkins, the most impressive fullback of the Dallas Cowboys, insists he's not really quitting football to go into politics, drawing a fine line between his new job as a special assistant to the governor of New Mexico (like Don, a Republican) and "actually running for legislative office."

His most pleasant memory of his six years in pro ball: "When I was named to the all-pro team by the players (NEA's 1962 team)."

Although he's listed at 206, Perkins admits he played the tough fullback role at 200 or a shade under... and "fessed up he stood only 5-10 (they used to bill him a six-footer). How did he decrease a couple of inches? "From stopping linebackers and butting linemen" (with smile).

Bill Casper

Billy Casper, most famous athlete in the weightless department, reveals that he actually went overboard on his diet kick—from 220 to a meager 165, which affected his stamina. So before he went out in '66 and captured all major laurels as Golfer of the Year, he gorged himself back to 180.

Casper is also off many of the exotic foods which graced his diet, like whale and buffalo meat, though "we still consume wild game."

Long noted as the finest punter in the game, Casper objects: "I'm good, but not exceptional. Seems like everyone I play with on the four out-puts me that particular round."

Most AFL players were rooting for the Kansas City Chiefs to beat the Buffalo Bills in the AFL title game because, as veteran Larry Grantham of the New York Jets noted, "I would like to see the American Football League make a strong showing in the Super Bowl, and with its superstars, I think Kansas City would make the best representative." ... Grantham mixed reports he might retire: "I'm only 28, and there's too much money to be made now in this game."

Joe Campanella was a surprise choice to succeed Don Kellott as general manager of the Baltimore Colts, especially since he'd been out of football for 10 years after retiring as a player. "What got me interested again," he says, "was when I went with the Colts to the Playoff Bowl last year and got close to the kids."

Looking back on his rookie year in pro ball, in which he was acclaimed the NFL's top newcomer, linebacker Tommy Nobis of the Atlanta Falcons feels he may have been a victim of overhustling. "Some backs," he says, "particularly Ken Willard and John David Crow of the 49ers, took advantage of me. They were smart enough to get me going one way and then going the other themselves—what we call veering."

If safety Mel Renfro, whose switch to running back for Dallas was aborted by an opening game injury, ever returns to offense, it'll only be as a flanker... to give the Cowboys a dual threat with Bob Hayes.

Arizona State's Frank Kush was on a recruiting trip in the East. "I'm looking for linemen," he noted. "I've had backs." ... And then he ticked off the names of Charley Taylor (Redskins), Tony Lorick (Colts), Gene Foster (Chargers), Gary Lewis (49ers), Larry Todd (Raiders), Henry Carr (Giants)... all of whom were on his squad at the same time.

Between you'n'me, Tex Schramm, vice-presy and general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, says he wouldn't be at all interested in the NFL presidency, as reported. He couldn't afford it (since he now owns a piece of the Cowboys)....

NOMINATE 886 COLTS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A record number of 886 colts have been nominated for the Illinois State Fair Colt Stakes, fair manager Franklin Rust announced Saturday. The old record was 818 last year.

Rust said another record total of 1,375 mares were bred in 1966 to foal in 1967. These foals will be eligible in the future for colt stakes at the fair.

Mathews To Astros In 5-Player Deal

ATLANTA (AP)—Edwin Lee Mathews Jr., who captained the National League Braves through their home run heydays, has been traded to the Houston Astros in a five-player deal.

Mathews, 35, the seventh leading home run hitter of all time, and two other Atlanta players were sent to Houston Saturday in return for pitcher Bob Bruce and outfielder Dave Nicholson.

The trading of Mathews, pitcher Arnold Umbach and a third player, yet unnamed, apparently is an attempt to balance the Braves' slugging roster with some defensive strength.

Bruce is considered a good pitcher despite a 3-13 record last season and a 5.33 earned run average. Nicholson hit .246 for the Astros last summer, with 10 home runs and 31 runs batted in.

Mathews Slow Starting

A mediocre early summer at the plate had generated rumors that Mathews, who had been with the Braves longer than any other player, was washed up.

But the third baseman rebounded after Billy Hitchcock replaced Bobby Bragan as manager Aug. 9, hitting .300 and collecting nine homers while the Braves surged into the first division. He ended the season with a .250 average, 16 homers and 53 RBIs.

Mathews owns a pile of major league and Braves records. His 494 lifetime home runs rank him third behind the 542 of San Francisco's Willie Mays and the 496 of New York's Mickey Mantle among players now active.

Led League 3 Years

In 1953, Mathews led the league in homers with 47, and he did it again in 1959 with 46.

Umbach lost two games and won none for the Braves last summer, with a 3.07 earned run average before he was sent to the Richmond farm club to finish the season with a 1-2 record and a 6.00 ERA.

Bruce was one of the National League's top pitchers in 1964, when he won 15 and lost 9, compiling a 2.76 ERA for the Astros. In 1965 the 33-year-old right-hander was 9-18 with a 3.72 ERA.

In Mathews, the Braves lose a .275 lifetime batting average. But the team's lineup, including Henry Aaron, Rico Carty, Felipe Alou, and Joe Torre, plus Cleto Boyer, a third baseman recently acquired from the New York Yankees—has plenty of power left over.

Pitching was the Braves' big weakness last season, when the team's best mound record was a 14-8 mark by Ken Johnson.

The Braves said Nicholson would be sent to Richmond. Mathews said he learned of the trade at his Brookfield, Wis., home from a sports writer who called to ask for his reaction.

Shocked At Handling

"I'm not only surprised—I'm shocked," said Mathews. "It isn't the trade that shocked me. It's the way the whole thing was handled. When you've been with the club for 18-19 years, as I have, you expect the common courtesy of having them let you know about it. Instead, my family and I had to find out from sports writers. I don't think that was fair or reasonable."

Mathews said he had "been around long enough to accept these things... as a ballplayer, this is just another challenge. The Houston club can be assured that I'll report in shape and give them the best I have."

The Highlanders survived a slow-moving first half with a 41-33 intermission advantage, led by Dave Berst's 11 points in the opening 20 minutes. Al Killoran added nine in the half. Mac trailed 11-8 in the early going but Denny Desmond came off the bench to hit three key buckets to give the visitors the lead for good.

Mac's Fred Lewis swished the first three buckets in the second half and the Highlanders upped their margin to 14 points and were never threatened after that. A big factor in the second half was Mac's domination of the boards, led by Berst.

Vacancies In Three Wards Cause Primary Election Contests

Three of Jacksonville's seven wards will have city primary elections to fill vacancies on the Democratic slates February 14.

In the eight races for alderman throughout the city, Republicans filled the slates with a candidate for every race.

Democrats in three wards did not file prior to the Saturday noon deadline.

Vacancies on the Democratic slates are in the first, fifth and sixth wards.

Incumbent Democrat Odell Fellhauer (sixth ward) is the only present alderman who does not seek re-election. He could, however, become a candidate with a write-in campaign Feb. 14.

Complete Filings
First Ward — Clarence Scott, 858 Doolin, Republican incumbent, seeks his fourth term as alderman. Scott is presently unopposed for the seat.

Second Ward — Democrat Howard (Bus) Thompson of 691 East State has filed his petitions for a second four-year term. He will be opposed by Republican John Schulz, 110 Spaulding. Schulz served one term as alderman and was replaced four years ago by Thompson.

Third Ward — Democrat Ray Birdsall, 314 South East Street, filed his petitions seeking a second four-year term on the council. He will be opposed by Don D. Dellert, Republican, of 8 Crescent Drive who seeks his first political office. Dellert owns and operates a paint store.

Fourth Ward — Democrat J. Trigg Adams of 613 South Main will seek re-election to the council for a full term. Adams was appointed to replace Bill Gross who resigned the post several months ago. Adams will be challenged by A. J. Spreen, Republican, of 136 Richards Street.

HITS PARKED CAR

AT NEW BERLIN

NEW BERLIN — A Jacksonville driver, who told police he fell asleep at the wheel while returning from Springfield late Friday, escaped injury when the station wagon he was driving hit a parked car belonging to the New Berlin night watchman.

Authorities said the Jacksonville man, Edward A. Stanley of 804 E. College, was driving a vehicle owned by Wally Baptist, also of Jacksonville. The night officer, Bill Eller, said he left his car parked on the south side of U.S. 36-54 in New Berlin's business section, only seconds before the crash occurred at 11:30 p.m.

Eller's car, spun completely around by the impact, was reportedly heavily damaged. The Baptist station wagon was towed to Jacksonville.

Housing Counselor Appointed To Check Code Enforcement

Mayor Byron Holkenbrink has announced the appointment of Lawrence Taylor of 847 Routt street to the position of housing counselor under the provisions set forth by the city's 1965 model housing code.

Taylor, who officially began his duties December 20, will work with Bryce Wall, building inspector, and confine his activities to bringing inadequate housing up to standards outlined by the housing code.

The appointment of a housing counselor fulfills that portion of the requirements detailed by Section 101 of the Housing Act of 1949, under the control of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

When the Jacksonville city council approved the decision to apply for federal funds towards federal public housing projects, it was necessary for a specially appointed citizen's advisory committee to investigate present housing facilities.

The committee's job was to help with a "workable program for community improvement," which agrees to meet federal requirements, and is then submitted by the city.

Necessary Code
The committee worked with the council in adopting the model housing code, among others, which was necessary before the "workable program" could even be given a glance by the federal agency.

Included in the workable program was the provision that the city agree to hire at least "one full-time housing inspector." This was promised over two years ago by the council.

Once each year, the city submits its workable program to the Housing and Urban Development for recertification, which includes information concerning the city's progress in keeping up with the federal requirements.

If the rules and regulations are not in order, then future requests by the city for additional federal funds may be affected.

The mayor's appointment of a housing counselor became immediately necessary following a letter of November 14 from John E. Kane, acting assistant regional administrator for program coordination and services, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In Kane's letter, he stated, "A systematic housing code enforcement program must be developed. This program should be of a comprehensive nature, giving specific attention to the preparation of maps, a record keeping system, the razing of substandard structures, the continued scheduling of enforcement activities and the employment of at least one full-time inspector.

Door-To-Door Check

"With next year's request for recertification we will expect a well-defined program of systematic (door-to-door) code enforcement. Also, should you desire we will be pleased to review your recently adopted plumbing code."

Bryce Wall, the city zoning officer, was appointed to act as the part-time building inspector for the code enforcement program.

Since the first workable program was submitted to the federal agency, the HHFA has instructed the city that there are enough inadequate housing structures in Jacksonville to require the attention of a full-time building inspector for strictly code enforcement.

Wall further mentioned that the federal government will not accept one person to act as a zoning officer and building inspector.

During the past year and one-half, Wall estimated that 150 dwelling units have been inspected, and added that within the past 30 days, 39 had been condemned.

These, he stated, have been in, and adjacent to the public housing projects, and that there has not been one objection filed against the decisions.

Wall has worked with Dale Bond, fire chief, and William Meyer, public health officer.

Thus, the mayor's decision to appoint a full-time person in this field to act with code enforcement, and keep peace with HUD.

Taylor, who will receive a $6,300 salary and bring to the job a knowledge of 12 years in the contracting business, said the first area to be checked will include about 80 residences.

He said that the area will be bordered by the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks to the north, south to East Court street, east to the CB and Q tracks, and North Clay street on the west.

Not Slum Area

Taylor specifically pointed out, "I want it made clear to people who live in this area, we do not consider this a slum, but rather one where improvements can be made to improve the entire neighborhood and to possibly keep it from becoming a slum."

Often, he noted, it is possible to have two houses side-by-side; one in need of repair, and the other in good condition. The resident of the well-kept residence suffers from the adjoining structure.

Taylor added that it will be his duty to attempt to bring all the housing in that area to a minimum standard with as little economic hardship to those involved.

"Naturally, if we find a house badly in need of certain repairs, and the resident's sole source of income is social security, we won't be as demanding for immediate action as we would with a person with more means."

Taylor said his first step will be to contact all of the residents of the area by letter, which will be sent within the first two weeks of 1967.

To Check Residences
Following the letter, he will begin calling on the residents and making a cellar to attic check of the houses for faulty conditions.

He said he will then explain to the owner the improvements needed and ten days to two weeks later send a written reminder of the various needs required by the housing code.

It will then be up to the owner to begin the improvements within a reasonable time period, agreed upon by Taylor and the house owner.

If those steps are not taken then Taylor said, more stringent actions will be necessary.

Taylor said that he and Wall will have laminated identification cards, with their pictures, available for those persons wishing to check on their credentials when they call on the various residents.

CHURCH NEAR DEMOLITION — A wrecking ball hangs ready in front of a window of the Central Baptist church Saturday before the auction, that realized $447.75. Reverend Charles Puckett said the congregation had previously been offered $1,000 for the church's antique chandelier, matching wall and hanging lights. Rev. Puckett said that the antiques would be sold later at an antique auction. Morgan County Builders have been contracted to demolish the building, beginning Saturday. Rev. Puckett said that he wanted to commend LeRoy Moss, auctioneer, who worked the auction without compensation.

Sewer, Water Rate Increase Expected To Pay Improvements

Jacksonville's sewer and water customers can expect a rate increase during 1967 when the city changes over to paying for the entire cost of running both departments out of current revenue.

The water system is currently paying its own way according to Mayor Byron Holkenbrink, but the sewer system is being subsidized by some $40,000 to $50,000 out of tax revenue.

Mayor Holkenbrink said Saturday that proposed improvements to the two systems is designed to keep pace with the rate of growth and development of Jacksonville as projected over the next forty years. Estimated cost has been set at slightly more than $3½ million

Sewer Plant

The proposed sewage treatment plant will be constructed on property just east of the present north side disposal plant, west of North Main near Mauvaister Creek. The plant will be an activated sludge type plant of modern design. The new plant will also replace both present plants, determined to be outmoded and obsolete by engineers.

A large fallout sewer will connect present sewer terminal points at the south side plant and generally follow the Mauvaister creek bed to a point near the proposed new sewage plant. A lift station will then move all sewage to the new plant.

Present Plan Site

What happens to the present site of the south side disposal plant? Mayor Holkenbrink said Saturday that the final decision would rest with the city council but that he would be in favor of possible residential or industrial growth for the area. He also mentioned that the area could use a suitable park or playground in the location.

Water System

The new water system improvements will be many but primarily include new filters and settling basins as well as new pumps. The construction will double the present capacity of the filtration system.

Another major improvement will include a ten-inch loop around the west perimeter of the city. Holkenbrink said the loop would include about 9,000 feet of pipe and added that it would make future residential and industrial development quite handy. The proposed route

Rate Increases

Mayor Holkenbrink said the rate increases would be presented for council approval within the next two months. He said the final decision on what rates would be necessary would depend on the sale of the bonds. Bonds will be sold for the sewer and water systems in the amount of $3 million. A federal grant of $625,000 will be added to the sewer project.

The present 50-cent sewer service charge will be removed entirely when the new rate schedule takes effect, Holkenbrink said. The new sewer rates will average 31-cents per 1,000 gallons of water used. The new

Dr. Robert Guthrie

Dr. Guthrie has attempted to outline a course which will present methods of diagnosing causes and suggested solutions to these problems in his opening lecture on "The Family in Crisis." His second area of investigation covers the husband-wife relationship, cultural differences, religious factor and communications breakdown under the heading of "The Crisis of Disequilibrium."

Problems confronting parents will be the basis for the third of his studies involving such questions as family size, parent-youth conflict and adolescence and discipline.

Two study periods will be devoted to the "Family and Personal Crisis", the first covering the areas of disenchantment, aging and death and the second covering the problem adult, alcoholism, mental defects and sexual adjustment.

His final study will delve into the realm of the future, making an attempt to project today's knowledge into future thinking.

Class periods will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on each Monday evening at the Trinity Episcopal Educational building. Mrs. G. C. Albright is serving as registrar for the school and may be reached at 265 King Court, telephone 5-6276. Registration fee is $3.00.

Jacksonville had one robbery and one attempted robbery; there were 123 burglaries with 79 of them cleared up. There were 174 petty larceny cases, the largest percentage of which involved shoplifting.

Twenty-nine autos were reported stolen, sixteen of which were unfounded reports (cars not stolen), and 12 were recovered. One auto is still missing.

The police department assisted the fire department in the investigation of ten arson cases. A total of 1,794 arrests were made during the year. October had the largest number of arrests, and May and July tied with the smallest number. Of this total, 509 were for moving violations, 225 for traffic violations. The Rose Bowl Parade

In these tension-tortured times when rational men everywhere earnestly seek concrete signs of peace, goodwill, brotherhood, and international understanding, it is with rising spirits and admitted pride that we find the eyes of the world focused on the quiet community of Pasadena, Calif., where such conditions abound in copious quantities today.

These qualities of hope and universal tranquility will come to a climax on Monday, Jan. 2, when the 78th annual Tournament of Roses Parade unfolds its message of beauty, color, joy, and gladness—a message that will be seen in person by 1-1/2 million spectators along the two-hour line of march: by more than 100 million television viewers of all three major U.S. television networks, Canadian TV, and Mexico TV; and by untold numbers more around the world through films of the parade distributed by the United States Information Service.

This year the message will have particular import around the world, for this oldest of all American floral folk festivals has the greatest international flavor in its history. Among the 61 floats are seven entered by six foreign lands: one each from Japan, Ireland, Hong Kong, Thailand, Mexico, and two from our good neighbor to the north, one representing the Dominion of Canada and the other from the city of Calgary.

Leading the parade in the role of grand marshal is a statesman of international renown, the Foreign Minister of Thailand, Mr. Thanat Khoman. He is the first person from outside the U.S. ever to be so honored and his name will join a long and illustrious list of former grand marshals that includes such dignitaries as Gen. Eisenhower, Chief Justice Warren, former Vice President Richard Nixon, and the late Walt Disney, to name a few.

With the kettle of unrest bubbling ominously in the Far East, the selection of Mr. Khoman is of particular importance this year. If it represents only a small step toward bettering international relations, it cannot escape the notice of the peoples of the world.

Caution For Cooks

Good cooks tend to taste as they go along. Much tasting makes plump cooks. These two facts of culinary life create something of a problem for the housewife who doesn't want to let out the seams of her dresses after the holiday feasting season.

What is needed, evidently, is a way to discourage tasting in the kitchen.

As a public service, therefore, we call attention to the admonition a Louisville woman reportedly pasted on a cookie jar for her teen-age daughter's benefit: "Taste Makes Waist."

It is brief, it is catchy, it is much to the point. Prominently displayed at stove and refrigerator, it just might work a small dietary wonder.

Why In Politics, Romney?

Needed Jobs For Kinfolk

By WASHINGTON STAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan of California evidently is going to have a hard time living down his background as an actor.

Wags in California, mindful of the tone of things at the annual Academy Awards ceremony each spring, suggested this is the way it may be on inauguration day in Sacramento.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, in Hollywood, accepting for Ronald Reagan — Miss Irene Dunne."

In a press conference at the Colorado Springs meeting of the Republican governors and government-elect, Reagan made one of those slips so common to politicians who are at pains to deny having ambitions beyond their state borders.

Said he:

"When we set up our office in Washington — I mean Sacramento. Don't read anything into that."

The slip recalled an even bigger one two years ago by Charles Percy, newly elected governor from Illinois, who in Michigan, 1964 was running for governor.

An aide told Percy that when he appeared on an upcoming television news panel show he should explicitly deny any higher ambitions.

A reporter, gave him his opening. Percy boomed out confidently:

"I just want to assure everyone that if I am elected I want nothing more than to be a good governor of the United States!"

Michigan Gov. George Romney finds it hard to shake off the label "sanctimonious" as he moves about the country with the spotlight of a potential presidential candidate following him.

Inevitably, his strong religious bent is made the object of political jesters, though they mean no disrespect or irreverence. One of the latest gags: "Do you know what George Romney wants the presidency for?"

"He wants it for a steppingstone!"

On rare occasions, Romney is not above "funning" his religion. One such time was at a Gridiron Club dinner in Washington, shortly after he was first elected governor of Michigan.

"A lot of people wondered why I entered politics," he said. "Well, being a Mormon, I have 233 cousins, and it was pretty tough finding jobs for all of them as a businessman."

A good many newsmen who cover politics seem to be hypersensitive to the shortcomings of our top political figures. Like jaded drama critics, they are very hard to please.

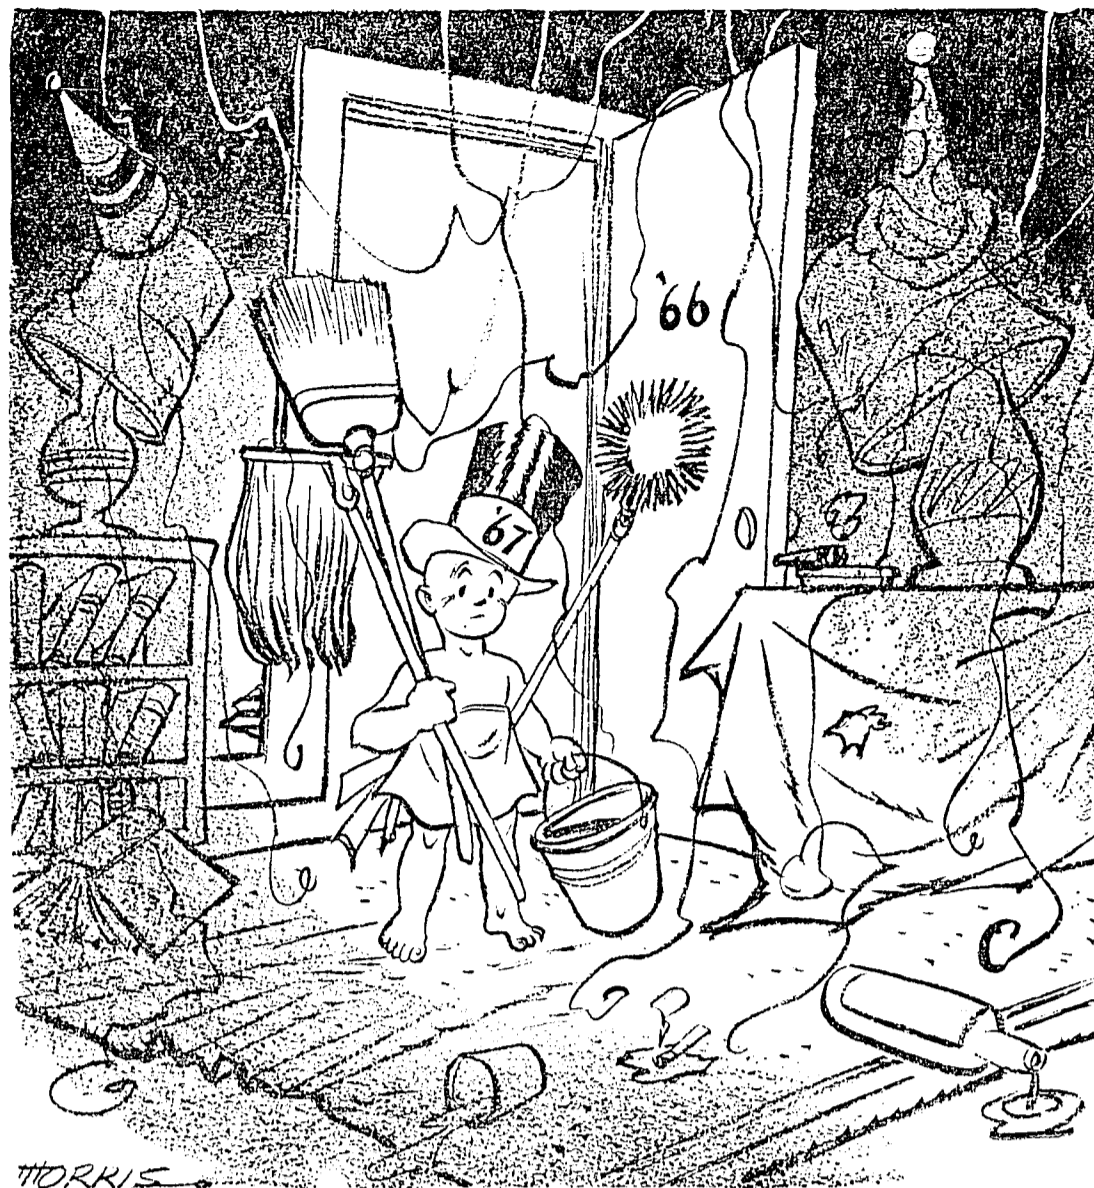

At the Colorado Springs Republican Governors Conference, the comment on most potential 1968 presidential nominees was fairly harsh. At the same time, incumbent President Johnson likewise took a steady jabbing.

The tone of remarks was so negative that one observer finally said acidly:

"The way it looks now, there's a strong likelihood that the 1968 presidential election will be thrown into the Georgia legislature for decision."

NIGHT - TIME LOGARITHMS

By ANDREA HEISS
Students attending classes after school? Though it may be difficult for some adults to imagine, students have been meeting after school and evenings with Mr. John Willett, the chemistry teacher, to study logarithms and the operation of the slide rule.

Approximately eighty students meet on Monday at 3:30, Wednesday at 7:00 p.m., and Thursday at 3:30 and 7:00 p.m. The classes will last about four weeks.

This class offers the opportunity to learn the fundamentals of the slide rule and to prepare students for college math and science. Mr. John Willett also emphasized that, with the ability to use the slide rule and logarithms, the student will be able to solve chemistry problems in half the time.

Logarithms are numbers usually grouped in a table which is used to reduce complex multiplications and divisions to subtractions and additions.

Two to the third power equals $2 \times 2 \times 2$ equal 8, or 3 is the logarithm of 8 to the base 2. The general rule is if a is equal c , then, by definition, b is the logarithm of c to the base a .

By instructing the students with the slide rule, Mr. Willett increases their speed and accuracy. These extra classes allow him more time to review and explain logarithms and the slide rule in greater depth than in the class period during school.

"It enables the students who did not take advanced math to learn something about the slide rule and its use," said one senior. Another student remarked that he liked the classes because "this extra class provides an opportunity to benefit those who are in need and interested."

Certainly the large attendance of these classes indicates the need for this instruction.

FINDING THE WAY

'Sacred Cows' Must Go

Dr. Loew

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is difficult for an American to understand the emotional fervor aroused by a proposition to kill a cow. Yet this is the cause of riots in India. There, in a country where so many millions of people confront daily hunger and possible starvation, the sacred cow is a centuries-old tie with history. To rid India of its hundreds of thousands of cattle is unbelievable to a Hindu. Therefore, the proposal of the government to kill cattle aroused riots, sent so-called "holy men" on emotional tirades which ended in burning of buildings, and the stopping of the already limited transportation. It's difficult for a Westerner to understand.

Yet, on New Year's Day we ought to consider our own "sacred cows." Once upon a time our forefathers had a limited number of necessities. What we deem to be necessary has grown until we confront realities as emotionally as do our Indian brothers.

We know the problems of traffic; we understand the need of using safety belts, and we know the danger of unreasonable speed. We know these things as surely as Indians know the need of food. But speed and our schedules are our sacred cows. We insist that nothing shall interrupt our own plans.

We know the dangers to health of air pollution or cigarettes. Reports come to us from government agencies and doctors solemnly tell us of the daily impairment to our hearts or lungs. We cannot say that we are ignorant of this knowledge. Yet sales of cigarettes soar and the government is required to initiate stringent laws to clean up the air of our cities. All because we have our sacred cows.

As late as the 1927-28 season there were 150 theatrical productions in New York City alone, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

We know the results of prejudice and bigotry, for in our own generation we have witnessed some of the horrible costs of that kind of intolerance. We have not yet been able to properly assess a Dachau or an Auschwitz or really take into our emotions the meaning of an Anne Frank. Yet before we are able to adequately write the stories of these miseries we tolerate the continuance of bigotries and prejudices in our own households. All of us have our sacred cows.

New Year's Day is a kind of clean page in the typewriter, a new start in life and a time of the familiar resolutions. Most of them have been trite and meaningless. Before I smile indulgently at my Indian brethren, or inveigh against their superstition in permitting people to starve and cattle to roam, I will look at my own sacred cows.

It's not time to patch up the old place or just rearrange our prejudices. It's a time for a "New Year." And before you riot before the prospect, consider your "sacred cows."

As late as the 1927-28 season there were 150 theatrical productions in New York City alone, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

"Well," muttered North, "the year is growing to a close. I hope this is the last slam you will throw away in 1966."

"What do you mean, throw away a slam?" replied South. "When West was smart enough to duck two spades I couldn't make it. Anyway, you had no right to go to six. A club opening would have beaten me right off the bat."

South had won the diamond opening and played three rounds of trumps. East signaled with the king of clubs on the third trump lead. South's next play was a low spade. West played the eight and dummy won with the jack. Back in his hand with his last high diamond, South led another spade. West ducked and dummy won with the queen. At this point if South could only have led his last spade from his own hand he would have made his contract but he was in dummy and forced to lead a spade from there. West took his ten and South still had to lose a club trick.

South would have made his contract if he had simply waited awhile to draw trumps. That way he would have led a spade at trick three. He could afford one trump lead. Back to his own hand with a second trump, he would play the third round and lead a second spade. Then back to his own hand with a diamond and he would lead the third spade and make the hand.

South's remark about North's bidding had some slight merit. North had taken South to two but South had opened with six hearts with a hand that was just a trifle too weak for that bid. His hand could only take eight tricks. He needed to find North with two tricks in order to make game and it is hard to visualize and any two trick hand that North would pass opposite a one heart opening.

SHEEPHERDER'S DOG

By John Rankin

Sitting quiet by itself in the late afternoon sun, the little cabin nestled snug against a hill overlooking a great valley sprawled between the snow-capped mountains. A thin trail of white smoke from its rock chimney mingled briefly with the still, wintry air and then floated away and was swallowed up by the hills.

In a battered armchair before a cozy log fire in the one-room cabin, Jose, the old shepherd, smoked his pipe reflectively and let his faded eyes rest with tender affection on the silky-haired, black and white Border collie curled up on a sheepskin at his feet.

Holding his pipe in his hand, the grizzled old man leaned over to give the dog a kindly pat on the head and then ran gnarled fingers through the long, silky coat and stroked his ears gently. Then he leaned back in his chair, staring straight into the open fire and recalled with vivid clarity the day he had found the homeless and nearly starved little pup shivering in the cold and wet along a lonely road in the valley. He had brought him home to a warm fire and fed him goat's milk, and had watched him romp and play over the cabin floor and then curl up to sleep on an old sheepskin by the fireside.

That had been something like two years ago, or maybe it was three. Jose wasn't sure. But he had promptly named the scrawny little waif, Jock, and with tender care and proper training had watched him grow and develop into a first-class sheep dog. And in that period of time a strong bond of affection and understanding had grown between them. An unyielding sort of loyalty and devotion seldom found elsewhere than in a lonely shepherd and his dog.

Finally the old herdsman grew drowsy, his pipe slipped from his fingers and fell to the floor, and he leaned back in the comfortable armchair and slept. Then as the afternoon shadows lengthened and the sun dipped slowly behind a hill to the west, he felt a gentle nudge on his knee and he awakened to see Jock's face only inches from his own, and saw the pleading look in his eyes and understood its meaning. It was time to bring the sheep in from the hills for the night.

As Jock went about the task of rounding up the sheep he paused from time to time to glance overhead to a great rock ledge overlooking the valley. On each trip of late he had noticed a strange looking figure up there and his instinct warned him that its presence meant danger! On occasion when the wind had been just right he had picked up the scent of a man and somehow the odor had an evil sort of smell that he feared but didn't understand.

Let's Go Birding

The Challenge Of 1966

By Emma Mae Leonhard

When the last day of the year runs out and a new day initiates the coming year, we often look back to evaluate our deeds and decisions. Bird watchers also often check their list of birds seen during the departing year and compare it with other lists of their own or of their friends.

The 1966 bird list for this section of Illinois covered over two hundred species; this is a good number. The quality, however, exceeded that of any preceding list on our record and perhaps will never be reached again. We succeeded in seeing or hearing all of the northern finches that occasionally or rarely visit this section—seven species, to be specific.

January 1, 1966, began our list with the rare Redpoll. We saw, near Lake Springfield, a flock of seven of these little, streaked, gray-brown birds with black chins and bright red caps on their foreheads. They were clinging, hanging, and crawling in different positions on the birch trees, prying open the catkins and eating seeds.

In the same birch trees were three Pine Siskins, the same size as that of the Redpoll but darker and more heavily streaked, with a flash of yellow in both the wing and tail.

On January 3, we were treated to our greatest find of the year, a Pine Grosbeak. In the top of a Hemlock tree in Nichols

Park sat this robin-sized rosy-red finch with its two white wingbars in view. Unafraid, it whistled to the world around it its mellow finch-like call "tee-tee-ew."

On the same day we saw White-winged Crossbills in Hemlocks and Pine Trees. These charming rosy-pink finches with black wings and tails and two broad white wing bars cannot be confused with the Grosbeak. To our surprise these White-winged Crossbills remained with us for several weeks and were seen often in our Jacksonville Hemlocks.

Later in January as we were searching the Pine Trees at Lake Jacksonville for crossbills and owls, we heard the call of the Evening Grosbeak and saw it fly overhead and across the lake—the only one of the year. At different times during 1966 we have found Purple Finches in several areas around Jacksonville. They are somewhat common with us, but they are just as colorful as the grosbeak or the crossbill already reported.

As December, the last month of 1966, arrived, we were still wishing for one more species of the northern finch—the Red Crossbill—and our wish was granted on December 3. In the long rows of pines along the road between Chandlerville and Bath were feeding at least twenty-five of these brick-red and olive-gray crossbills. A week later we found these same crossbills in the same area. This time they temporarily posed in a dead tree, on the very top branches of pines, and on the telephone wire.

Today, January 1, 1967, is challenging our completed bird list. What will it bring us?

"We will be able to include special facilities for your (the passenger's) comfort and convenience—lounges, observation areas with a pilot's-eye view, staterooms with beds, or private compartments for business conferences."

Like Theatre Passengers will be seated comfortably in a single-deck cabin measuring twenty feet wide and 228 feet long. This is seven feet wider than current jetliners and nearly twice as long.

In this theater-like space the passengers will be seated in three blocks of seats. One block will be first class, a second for tourist and a third for a movie theater. No passenger will be more than one seat away from one or the other of the double aisles in the plane.

Passengers will board the plane through four doors—two on each side. The flight deck, with arrangements for a crew of three or four, will be on a level above the main cabin. This will make possible a lounge in the nose of the plane where passengers can get a pilot's-eye view of the flight. Also on the upper deck will be private staterooms and a nursery for the passengers and their children.

Waiting For Santa

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Sleepy Rap

Rip and Sissy snugly tucked the cover around plump little Rap.

"Oh this is nice," he sleepily told them, "I'll call you about midnight likely" and closed his eyes.

"Oh! Oh!" Sissy squealed, "Your tail is out!"

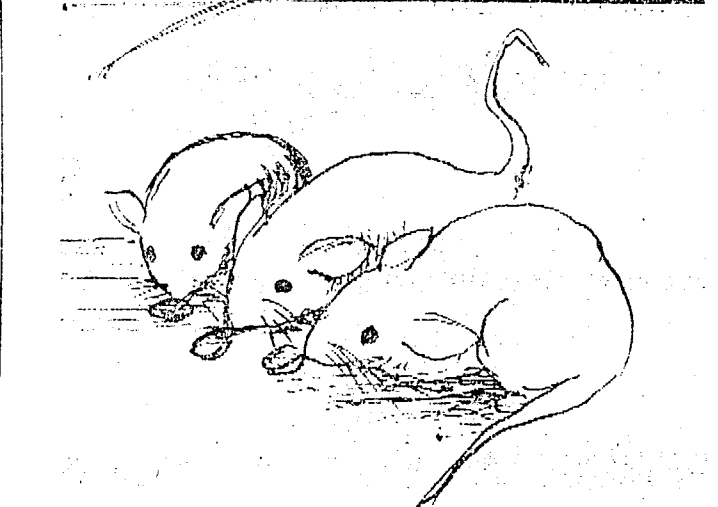

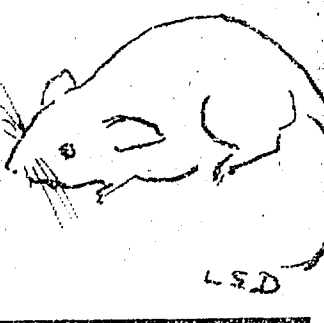

"Never mind," Rap answered, "Who will step on it here!" So Rip and Sissy scurried back to their good nest.

With the first sleighbell sound Rap awakened. "He's here, he's here!" he called, "wake up, wake up!"

In seconds Rip and Sissy climbed to the floor to patter close beside Rap.

A scratching sound moved lower and lower down the chimney. Creek, creek also came from the stairway, then PLUNK, PLUNK!

Santa and his bag landed on the wide hearth! Scuff, scuff, Father stood in the doorway reaching for the light switch. "No, No," came Santa's voice. "I need no light for my work."

Prayer Poem

NEW YEAR

We know not what the New Year holds, We'll live it day by day... Because TODAY... is all we have.

No there's... no other way: No doubt, we'll have, as men have had Since time on earth began... Some joy, some pain, some loss, some gain...

That, Lord, besets each man: But still, we'll look ahead with HOPE.

Though dangers may appear... And with true COURAGE, face them. Lord.

Nor give away... to FEAR: We'll LIVE, and LOVE, and firmly STRIVE

To do what seems the BEST IN EVERY undertaking... And leave to Thee... the rest: For well, we know, whate'er we face.

The good... or things we dread...

GREEN HORNET

One Christmas Eve Santa was hitching the reindeer to the red and white sleigh. He put green, red, white and blue light bulbs on the sleigh.

Then all of a sudden an elf came in. He said that the Green Hornets were going to attack tonight. Santa said that he had to go away.

He mounted a thirty caliber machine gun on his sleigh and took off. When he got in the air the hornets attacked him. They started to open fire and Santa did too. He killed almost all of them but there were two left.

They shot off one of the deer's horns and it happened to be one of Rudolph's friends. Rudolph got unlit and flew to fight the two hornets. He took one end of a rope and tied up the two hornets.

Santa got all of the toys to every girl and boy and then Santa got home safely.

SANTA'S GLASSES

Santa lost his glasses when he was riding in his helicopter. He said, "I cannot see!" So he went untown to buy some glasses but they didn't fit.

Santa said, "Oh, dear! There will not be any Christmas! What will I do?" He was very sad.

He went back to the helicopter. There he found them in the glove compartment. Santa laughed and laughed. He said, "I am getting old and forgetful. I am glad I found them and there will be a Christmas after all and all the people will be happy."

GIANT JET

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

Trans World Airlines recently ordered a number of Boeing's giant 747 jets, shown above, to join its fleet in 1970. Other airlines will also be ordering these giant jets.

The 747 will carry around 325 to 400 passengers, compared to about 100 to 175 carried by present jetliners. These 400 passengers will have more room than those on today's jets as described by TWA. "Because it will have a much larger cabin than the existing StarStreams, we will be able to offer you more leg room, elbow room, head room, and hip room."

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

AMENDMENT OF THE GAME LAW—A petition is being circulated among our citizens for an amendment of the game law of the state, so as to permit the killing of prairie chickens and other enumerated kinds of game, in Morgan county, from the 1st of August to the 1st of February, and to remove all restrictions on the killing of wild ducks and geese.

Our sportsmen are generally dissatisfied with the time now fixed by the law for the opening of the prairie chicken hunting season. The old law designated the 1st of August, but, as the law stands amended, the hunting season opens some two weeks later. Our sportsmen think that the chickens are well enough grown to shoot by the 1st of August, and that at present there is no necessity for prohibiting the killing of wild ducks at any season, as they are a migratory bird.

CERTIFICATE ISSUED—The Whitehall Mining and Manufacturing Company, of Whitehall, with a capital of $25,000, have filed a certificate of organization in the office of the secretary of state. The object of the company is to develop coal mines on the line of the St. Louis, Alton & Jacksonville Railroad.

DEDICATION—The new church edifice five miles northwest of Jacksonville, known as the Ebenezer Chapel, will be dedicated to the worship of God, at 10 o'clock a.m., January 6th, 1967. Sermons by Dr. Akers, assisted by Wm. J. Rutledge of Bloomington, and H. Wallace of Jacksonville. The public are invited to attend. JAMES A. GREEN.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS

with ED GARLICH RESULTS OF ABUNDANCE

We all know that farmers are producing more food in the United States. Figures from one of America's leading life insurance companies show what is happening to the food.

Their figures show that the average insured man weighs a good bit more now than he did back in the forties.

On the other hand, women, except the youngest and the tallest are lighter now than they were twenty years ago.

Men showed gains at all ages and heights. The biggest gains were made by those in the youngest and tallest groups. Between 1941 and 1963 the typical man under 45 gained 8 pounds.

The ladies did better. Women between 55 and 65 are a full 10 pounds lighter these days than they were in the forties.

FROM THE CORN CRIB

An Irish tramp approached a prosperous-looking individual one day, soliciting alms.

When he saw the man put his hand into his pocket, the tramp cried out: "May the blessing of God follow you all of your life." But when the wealthy one pulled out only his handkerchief, the tramp immediately added: "and never overtake ye."

NewRecords Set By 1966 Grain Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Trade in grain futures became a bigger business in 1966 on the Chicago Board of Trade than in any other of the 119 years existence of the exchange.

Value of the commodities handled exceeded the record $65.9 billion set in 1965. The number of contracts was also at a record peak.

Prices of such major commodities as wheat, corn and soybeans were substantially above those of 1965 with corn at the highest levels on average in more than 10 years.

Soybeans, usually the leader in trade volume, again accounted for a large percentage of the business and rarely sold under $3 a bushel. In August, when supplies in commercial positions had been virtually exhausted, the price climbed to $3.98, highest in many years. It compared with a top of $4.25, set in the 1953-54 crop year.

Speculative trading was very active in all pits at times but it held consistently high in soybeans. A drought in early summer became a scare factor in both the corn and soybean trading and it twice boosted activity in corn to 118-year record highs. The open interest in corn also hit a record peak.

However, the drought was only one influence on the market. More important early in the year was a general belief that reserve stocks of all major grains could be nearly depleted by heavy withdrawals from government supplies, particularly to avert famine in India and for emergency relief in some other parts of the world.

Wheat prices moved up sharply even after harvest of the nation's second-largest crop. However, a record Canadian yield and word that Russia had booked all its requirements to supplement a good production imparted some bearish sentiment to the trade for a while.

But again near the year's end, the trade had become at least moderately concerned about reports of dry weather in the southern Great Plains where the winter crop had shown rather poor development.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The congregation of Faith Lutheran Church now has a $140,000 place of worship, after a 21-month period during which it held Sunday services in the Red Barn Social hall, with children's classes in the Awful Awful Saloon.

MORE THAN 300 Future Farmers of America leaders from Illinois high schools attended the annual Farm Bureau-FFA conference on the campus of Illinois State University in Normal, December 27-29. The conference is sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural association (state-wide Farm Bureau) and affiliated companies. Registering from Morgan County, from left: David Wilson, Franklin, and James Fox, Jacksonville.

SLIM PICKINGS in the 1966 cotton harvest put total production at its lowest since 1946. Growers voted to continue marketing quotas for their crop, provided through the federal program that enabled them to reduce acreage sharply from totals planted in recent years. Bad weather and insects cut the yield below earlier expectations, and a sharp reduction in surplus stocks is expected.

LAW on the farm THE LANDLORD HAS A LIEN

Illinois has a statutory landlord's lien giving the landowner a claim against his tenant's crops for rent due. The present law, enacted in 1873 and revised in 1927, reads as follows:

"Every landlord shall have a lien upon the crops grown or growing upon the demised premises for the rent thereof, whether the same is payable wholly or in part in money or specific articles of property or products of the premises, or labor, and also for the faithful performance of the terms of the lease. Such lien shall continue for the period of six months after the expiration of the term for which the premises are demised, and may be enforced by distraint as in this Act provided."

This law has been interpreted many times by Illinois courts. The following summary of these decisions is important to a proper understanding of the act:

1. The lien applies only to crops grown during any one year for the rent for that year. Fall-seeded crops, such as winter wheat, are exceptions. The court has said that, since they grow in two different years, they are subject to the rent for those two years.
2. The lien applies only to crops grown on land for which the landlord is entitled to receive rent.
3. The lien applies only to crops, and not to other property of the tenant.
4. The lien is not against the tenant, but against the crops. Therefore, it attaches even though a farmer who subleases from the renter may have grown the crops and even though the

Cass, Menard, Mason Arrange Corn School

VIRGINIA—Russell Meridith, Cass county farm adviser, announces that farmers are invited to attend a two day Corn Countdown school to be held on Jan. 3 and again on Jan. 17. Both meetings will start at 10 a.m. and adjourn at 3 p.m. A box lunch will be served.

Meridith announces that seven University of Illinois specialists will take part in the event. The first day will be devoted to soils and fertilizers. The crops day will be on Jan. 17. Farmers are urged to attend both days.

grain may have been sold to a third party. In this latter case, the third party—usually a grain dealer—is subject to the lien unless he can show that he had no reason to think the grain was grown on rented land. Many grain dealers and elevator operators protect themselves against the landlord's lien by keeping lists of landlords and making checks out jointly or stamping and indorsement clause on the check.

5. The landlord's lien is superior to chattel mortgages and security interests or other claims against crops.

6. The lien applies only to crops, but it also covers the payment of cash rent due.

In general, this lien works fairly well and is quite useful to landlords. But some improvements could be made. First, the law should be made clear on how the lien operates against third parties, such as elevators, that purchase crops from tenants. Second, there should be more specific provisions on enforcement and how it ties in with distress proceedings.

—Norm Krausz

Corn is worth about $5 million dollars annually to the farmers in Cass county. Most farmers are applying from $20 to $35 worth of fertilizer per acre. With this volume of expenditures, a better understanding of soils and fertilizers is needed, Meridith says.

About 300 farmers are expected to turn out from the three counties sponsoring the school. The school is sponsored by the Co-operative Extension Service of Cass, Menard and Mason counties.

Kuhfuss Addresses Future Farmers

The president of the Illinois Agricultural association urged some 350 high school Future Farmers of America members to think big enough to stay ahead in business and agriculture.

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the IAA since 1953, addressed a banquet the first night of the annual Farm Bureau-FFA holiday conference conducted in Bloomington and Normal Dec. 27-29.

Kuhfuss labeled the FFA leaders as "tomorrow's businessmen in Illinois."

"There's no right formula for building a successful pattern of life, but there are standards and guidelines."

"Be tied closely with the kind of thinking, the kind of philosophy and the kind of people that are right."

"Each of you today are building your pattern. The record you make today is permanent. Every opportunity you have to make a decision puts another stamp on that permanent record. Building a reputation takes a long time."

Kuhfuss challenged the young farmers to understand the things that have made America great. He commended today's young people for being "the greatest ever" but added that they have had the "greatest opportunity."

The FFA holiday conference featured speakers, films, and discussions concerning topics such as the competitive enterprise system, ways of doing business, the Farm Bureau family of cooperatives, and individual responsibility.

Sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural association and affiliated companies, the conference was held mainly on the campus of Illinois State University in Normal. The agenda, however, included a tour of the IAA home office in Bloomington and a banquet in the building's cafeteria.

FFA chapters that have taken part in local Farm Bureau-FFA Acquaintance Day programs were eligible to send representatives to the conference. Participants represented chapters in 73 counties in Illinois.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

MILK PRICES RISE SHARPLY

Sales of milk probably brought Illinois farmers 150 million dollars in 1966 and accounted for 6 percent of farmers' cash receipts from farm marketings. In the nation as a whole, dairying is relatively more important. Sales of dairy products bring in about 13 percent of total receipts from sales of farm products. We estimate U.S. cash receipts from farmers' sales of dairy products at nearly $5.6 billion in 1966, 10 percent more than in 1965.

Milk Prices Rise Sharply. Prices of milk improved sharply this year, mostly as a result of reduced output. Milk production averaged about 5 percent lower in most months than in 1965. By November the average price received by U.S. farmers for milk for the fluid market was about $5.80 a hundred pounds. That price was about 15 percent higher than the year before. The Illinois average was about $5.30, up 20 percent. At this price the farmer was getting 11 1/2 cents a quart, or 23 cents a half-gallon.

Some Dairymen Gain; Others Quit. Many average and better dairymen are getting acceptable returns from their herds and have been increasing their production, but others have become discouraged and quit the dairy business. Milk production in Illinois was 7 percent lower in October this year than in the same month of 1965. For the same periods, total U.S. output was about the same.

Much of the Illinois dairy industry is at the northern edge of the state, where there are many opportunities for farm operators and hired workers to get nonfarm jobs. Production of grain for sale has also become more profitable in that area than it used to be.

Price Support Boosted. Price supports for milk have been raised to halt the decline in production and to insure adequate supplies for consumers. The support level for manufacturing-grade milk is set at $4.00 a hundred pounds until March 31, 1968. This support price is about 58 cents below the price farmers received for manufacturing-grade milk in November. Thus market prices could decline by more than 50 cents a hundred pounds before coming to rest at the support level.

From 1949 to 1965, the support fluctuated around $3.00 a hundred pounds. Market prices for manufacturing-grade milk usually ranged 10 to 15 cents above the support level. The Chicago Class I price was mostly a little below $4.00 except in 1953, when it climbed to around $4.75.

New York-New Jersey Class I prices were up to around $5.25 to $5.50 in most of these same years. The high prices in the East stimulated farmers there to increase production. This increase accounted for most of the surplus milk production.

In past years when price supports were increased, costs of support usually became excessive within a year or two. Then the support was reduced to cut expenses. This pattern may—or may not—be repeated. It will pay dairymen to watch developments carefully.

4-H Electrical School Begins Monday, Jan. 9

The popular 4-H Electricity School will be held next month at the Cooperative Extension Center on East Morton Road, announces Ralph R. Romig, associate farm adviser.

Last year 50 Morgan County boys and girls completed the school. The first night has been set for Monday, Jan. 9, and will meet each Monday night in the month, with Parents' Night on Monday, Feb. 6.

The instructors, all volunteers, are:

Beginning students — Bud Cheeseman, Illinois Power Co.

Second year students — Dorland Smith, Menard Electric Corp.

Third year students — George Lindsey, Illinois Rural Electric Co.

Advanced students — Tom Glossop, Anderson, Clayton & Co.

"This is an excellent school with top instructors," Romig says. "Tools needed are needed pliers and a screwdriver. The electrical project is completed by attending the school, giving a demonstration, and exhibiting at the county fair."

Committee In Cass Raises CROP Fund

VIRGINIA The Cass County C.R.O.P. committee, headed by Harold Nordsiek, Beardstown, announces that a total of $2,642.95 was collected. This will be channeled through Church World Service and other designated church relief agencies and distributed in such a way that it would help needy people to become self-sufficient rather than making them charity cases. Much credit should be given to the campaign, numbering 17 participants, which netted $1,104.68. A Friendship Acre represents a farmer's share of an acre of corn or beans or a unit of livestock. It can also be a plot of ground tended and harvested as a community project and donated to C.R.O.P.

A few churches this year gave special offerings for C.R.O.P. The five banks of the county sponsored the expenses of the canvassers' kick-off meeting.

In the organization meeting for 1967 C.R.O.P., George Petefish of Virginia was elected county chairman. Petefish served as vice-chairman this past year.

Other officers filled to date next meeting, which will be at are: Reginald Jokisch, treasurer; Maurice Jokisch, secretary;

North Greene Races To IVC Crown, 74-61

Dallas, GB Hold Closed Workouts

DALLAS (AP) — Green Bay's defending champions left their Tulsa hideout Friday morning and flew to showery Dallas where both the favored Packers and the Dallas Cowboys went through closed workouts for Sunday's National Football League title game.

Rain spattered the city during the night and through the day with intermittent showers. The forecast called for rain Saturday when Georgia and Southern Methodist will be playing their Cotton Bowl game. The outlook for Sunday, however, still was for clear, cold weather.

Any possibility of a damp or moist field probably would react in favor of the veteran Packers, who already are about one-touchdown favorites.

The Packers like to punch it out on the ground with an occasional quick air thrust by Bart Starr. Dallas bases its attack around swift Bob Hayes. Don Meredith's arm and the catch—around swift Bob Hayes. Don Meredith's arm and the catching and running of Dan Reeves.

The Cotton Bowl with its 75,504 seats has been sold out for many days and the area is football crazy with the big double-header helping for the weekend.

Sunday's game, scheduled for 4:05 p.m. EST will be beamed across the nation by the Columbia Broadcasting System's radio and television. The Dallas area is blacked out on TV but 7,500 tickets for a charity closed circuit showing in the Municipal Auditorium went on sale Friday morning.

With the radio-TV people paying $2 million for the rights to the game, everybody is talking big money. The winners of the game will get about $8,600 each, the losers about $6,000.

The winner goes to the Super Bowl game Jan. 15 at Los Angeles with the American Football League champion, where each winner is guaranteed $15,000 and each loser $7,500. Never in the history of team sports has so much money been at stake.

Louisville Nips Princeton For Quaker City Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unbeaten Louisville, led by its one-time punch of Westley Ungard and Butch Beard, won the Quaker City basketball tournament Friday, dealing Princeton its first loss of the season, 72-63.

The nation's No. 2 ranked Louisville team broke the game open midway through the first half with a 9-2 surge that gave the Cardinals a 24-15 lead. Princeton never got closer than 28-23 at the half.

The Tigers played without their captain, Ed Hummer, 6-foot-8 rebounder and key scorer who was sent back to Princeton earlier Friday with intestinal virus.

Unseeded scored 19 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to set a tournament record of 64 off the boards in the three-day tournament. He broke the mark of 63 set in 1962 by Bowling Green's Nate Thurmond, now with the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association. Earlier in consolation round games Syracuse defeated Villanova 81-71 to take third place and LaSalle whipped Bowling Green 78-71 to win fifth place.

TAR HEELS SMASH OHIO STATE 105-82

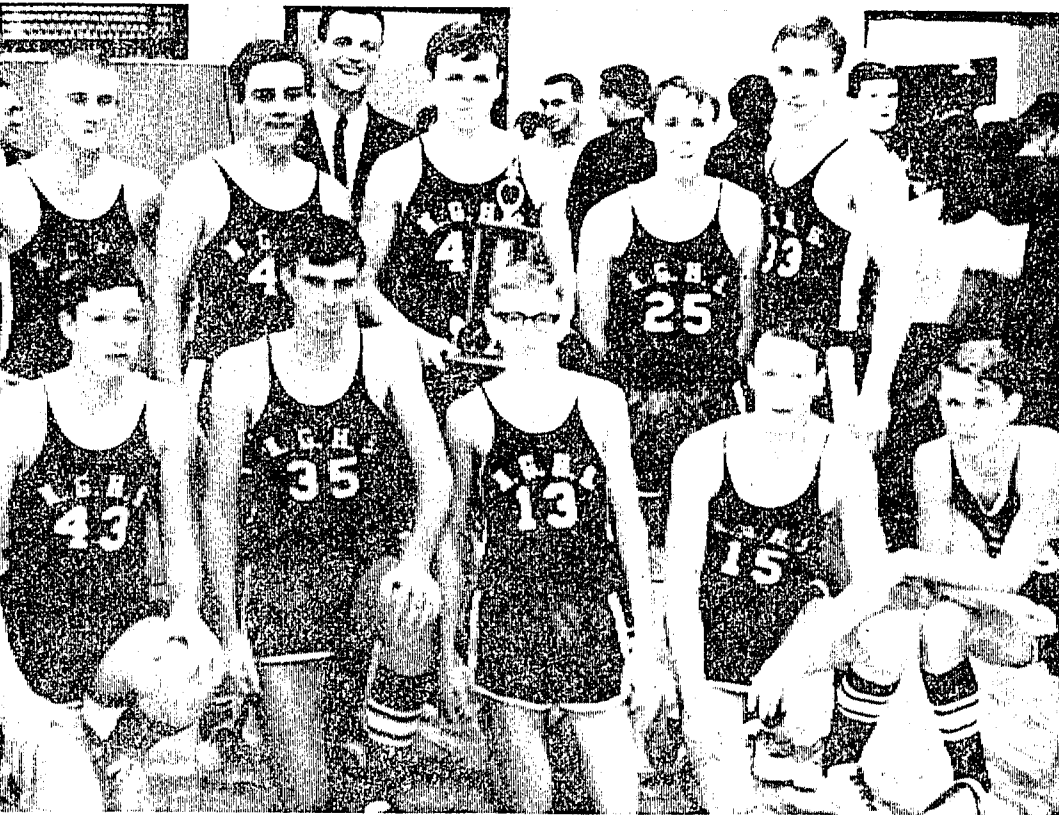

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Third-ranked North Carolina preserved its spotless record by routing Ohio State 105-82 Friday night with a balanced attack led by Rusty Clark contributed 24 points and Larry Miller and Bob Lewis 23 each.

The Tar Heels, in winning their ninth game, pulled away late in the first half, when their pressing man-to-man defense enabled them to make steals and set up fast breaks. They led 53-35 at intermission. A capacity crowd of 11,666 watched at the Charlotte Coliseum.

It was only the second loss in eight games for Ohio State, which had nipped Duke 83-82 Thursday night.

St. Augustine, Fla., claims to have the oldest house in North America. An ancient structure of undetermined origin, it displays the colors of the United States, Great Britain, Spain and the Confederacy—flags of four of the different governments under which the city grew.

Crimson Matmen Sweep Tourney

SPRINGFIELD — Five Crimson matmen earned championship titles here Friday afternoon in leading Jacksonville to its second straight conquest over the eight-team Springfield Holiday Wrestling Tournament.

Jacksonville, which had sewn up the title even before the final matches got underway, amassed 84 points on five first, two second, one third, a pair of fifth places, and one sixth.

Host Springfield High rated a far-back second with 58, followed by Feitshans with 56, Deatur Eisenhower with 49, Christian Brothers of Quincy 44, Lanphier 39, Normal Community 39 and Shelbyville with 23.

Art McPike at 112-pounds, 154-pounder Bob Dennis and Roger Spaulding at 120 each successfully defended their individual titles, while Chip Suppen at 127 and 180-pounder Steve Maurer posted the Crimsons' other two firsts.

McPike moved up the ladder with a 6-1 decision over Biddle of Shelbyville and a 9-4 romp over Gloor of CBQ, before mauling Beasley of Eisenhower 7-1 in the finals.

After advancing on falls in the first two rounds, Dennis edged out Wince of Springfield by an 8-4 tally in overtime to gain the title. Dennis earlier pinned Huelskoetter of Lanphier in 4:57 and Morville of Eisenhower in 5:38.

Spaulding garnered his successful defense on a pin in the opening round of Normal Community's Weissner before netting decisions over Mueller of Lanphier (5-0) and Alexander of Feitshans (7-0) for the crown.

Sherman underwent knee surgery and missed spring practice but he caught 35 passes for 343 yards and two touchdowns and gained 311 yards rushing in 78 carries.

Sherman's career pass receptions of 83 broke the mark held by Hal Bedsole. Rod is a senior, a sturdy 6-0 190-pounder.

"He's running better than he has," Coach John McKay commented during Thursday's practice.

Shaw, also a senior, 6-2, 192, led the team in pass interceptions with five which he returned for a total of 97 yards.

Purdue's answer to Shaw is Leroy Keyes, who is also an exceptional halfback on offense. Keyes, 6-3, 198, is a sophomore. Against Notre Dame, he recovered an in-air fumble and raced it back 95 yards for a touchdown.

Keyes stole four passes and returned them 161 yards. "Keyes will go both ways Monday," Coach Jack Mollenkopf disclosed. "He's had more two-platoon practice this week than he has all season so we'll use him more on offense."

Purdue's middle guard, Chuck Kyle, 6-2, 221, a sophomore, was among the several McKay singled out for favorable attention, has been nursing a muscle injury.

But Mollenkopf said Kyle, who has been drilling in sweats, will be ready Monday.

Cornhuskers 'Ready' For Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nebraska played the high note and Alabama the low note in this capital of jazz Friday with three days to go before their meeting in the 33rd Sugar Bowl Football game.

"We can win if we play our best game," said Bob Devaney, coach of the sixth-ranked Cornhuskers, who are eager to avenge their 39-28 loss to Alabama in the Orange Bowl last January.

"It will be a year ago as far as I can tell, we are ready mentally. We need to play hard and make no mistakes."

Alabama's Coach Paul Bryant's brows were wrinkled with worry—feigned or genuine, nobody could tell.

"This Nebraska team is the best running team I've seen — they'll crawl right down your throat," the coach of the third-ranked, unbeaten and untied Crimson Tide moaned.

"It will take a great team to beat them — the best team in the country."

The chubby Devaney, with a 47-7 record, five bowl bids and four straight Big Eight championships to show for his five years at the Nebraska helm, was the target of a pre-game grilling Friday at an official Sugar Bowl breakfast.

"We have tremendous respect for Alabama—we know they are quick and tough," he said. "We have seen all 10 of their season's games on film. We think they are two touchdowns better defensively than a year ago."

The Nebraska coach was asked what Alabama player he feared most.

"If we had to name a No. 1 man, it would be their quarterback Ken Stabler," the coach replied. "Steve Sloan hurt us badly last year at Miami but we feel Stabler could be tougher because he can both pass and run."

Shaw, also a senior, 6-2, 192, led the team in pass interceptions with five which he returned for a total of 97 yards.

Purdue's answer to Shaw is Leroy Keyes, who is also an exceptional halfback on offense. Keyes, 6-3, 198, is a sophomore. Against Notre Dame, he recovered an in-air fumble and raced it back 95 yards for a touchdown.

Keyes stole four passes and returned them 161 yards. "Keyes will go both ways Monday," Coach Jack Mollenkopf disclosed. "He's had more two-platoon practice this week than he has all season so we'll use him more on offense."

Spartan Rebounding Too Much For Birds

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

GREENFIELD — North Greene unleashed a race-horse offense set up via control of both boards and stormed to an impressive 74-61 victory over Southwestern to claim the championship of the Illinois Valley Conference Tournament, here Friday evening before a crowd of approximately 1,400.

Clutch free throw shooting by Don Campbell in the closing minutes let Winchester nip Calhoun, 67-64, to cop third place in the annual tourney that wrapped up a three-night run Friday.

North Greene's potent fast break and snapping passing on offense was complimented by control of the boards and the Spartans never trailed after late in the opening period.

Forwards Rob Crain and Charley Binstead, center Guy Manning and guard Tom Giller were all offensive starts for North Greene. Between them they contributed 64 points and got their share of North Greene's 51 rebounds.

The Spartans grabbed off 23 offensive retrieves, turning several of them into easy buckets. After the game was tied at 4, 6 and 12, North Greene broke in front to stay. The Spartans led by 15 midway through the second quarter and by nine at intermission. Several Southwestern rallies in the second half got no closer than five points.

Giller Leads Charge
Giller, a scrappy guard who runs the Spartan offense, threw in nine points in the opening period as North Greene grabbed a final 20-14 edge.

Marty Rhoades led a string of seven straight points to open the second quarter and North Greene upped the difference to 27-14 and later to 32-17 on another Rhoades' bucket. Crain connected on a three-point play 30 seconds later as the margin grew to 32-17. Late heroics by Southwestern's Dick Lister and Ken Schrier cut the spread to 39-30 at halftime.

Birds Cut Lead
Schrier, Lister and Gary Bowker led a Southwestern charge in the third frame to slice the lead to 51-46 with 2:20 to play in the frame, but Manning and Crain quickly retallied to keep North Greene in charge. Two late buckets by Schrier left Southwestern trailing 57-52 to start the final eight minutes.

Crain tallied 11 points in the closing quarter to more than hold off any Southwestern threat and the eventual losers never lost more than six points in the period.

Crain with 19 and Giller with 18 led the winners, while Schrier led all scoring for the now 2-6 losers, with 23. North Greene is now 8-2.

Campbell Leads Wildcats
The first game was tight from start to finish, with never more than eight points separating the two evenly matched clubs. With the game close down to the wire Campbell settled the contest with six clutch free tosses near the end.

Entering the final three minutes Winchester led by only one. Campbell converted on both ends of a one-and-one and Bob Moore matched it seconds later to boost the margin to 59-56. Campbell again came through with 1:11 left to keep Winchester on top.

Calhoun's Dennis Angel and Jerry Crader hit buckets in less than five seconds to cut the lead to 65-64 with five seconds showing, but Campbell again swished both ends of a one-and-one with :02 remaining to ice the contest.

Calhoun controlled the first quarter of the foul-infested contest. The Warriors swept to a 26-18 margin after eight minutes, behind Mike Devening, who scored 18 points in the first half.

Winchester soared back with the first 11 points in the second period behind Randy Con and Moore and grabbed a 29-26 lead before Calhoun scored in the quarter. Devening hit six of the last eight points in the half to boost Calhoun to a 36-33 lead at halftime.

Lose Four Starters
Winchester grabbed a 46-43 lead at the end of the third and clung to its small advantage in the closing chapter despite losing four starters with five minutes left.

Campbell led the winners with 20 points, followed by Moore with 16 and Mike Thomas with 13. Devening's 21 was tops for the game, in which 56 fouls were called and seven players fouled out.

The win boosts Winchester to 4-4 and drops Calhoun to 5-5.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — St. Louis smothered West Virginia with a fast breaking attack 107-87 that gave St. Louis fourth place in the Far West Classic basketball tournament Friday.

Minnesota defeated Oregon State 60-54 in the first game of the afternoon doubleheader for seventh place.

St. Louis jumped off to a 29-point lead in the early minutes and never let West Virginia get back into contention.

St. Louis broke the previous tournament record of 94 points in a game.

Dave Reaser had 26 for West Virginia, setting a tournament scoring record of 92 points in three games. The previous high was 91 by Cassie Russell of Michigan in 1965.

Clan Wins 90-72 On Southern Stop

MIAMI, Fla. — A pressing defensive, coupled with a 45% shooting clip, at the offensive end, lifted the always-in-command MacMurray Highlanders to an easy 90-72 triumph over Biscayne College here Friday night.

The contest, MacMurray's first of four on a sun-seeking swing through the south, saw the Highlanders build up a small lead in the early going and never trail.

A late first half Mac flurry did most of the damage, with the Clansmen moving from a five point lead with 5:00 to go to a 47-30 halftime advantage. Center Al Killoran sparked the surge with a 13 point half.

Ten men landed in the victor's scoring column, headed by Killoran and Fred Lewis with 17 each. Bob Alexander, with 10, was the only other Highlander to rate double figures.

Biscayne's Mike Ryan led all scorers with 21, while teammate Chuck Hausberg tossed in 15. The all-male Catholic school which now stands 7-2 hit at a 38% clip for the night.

The win brought MacMurray to 5-4 for the year.

Ward Named To Maryland Helm

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Bob Ward, Maryland's first football All-American, was hired Friday as the head football coach of his alma mater and was given a five-year contract at $20,000 annually.

Ward, the head line coach at Army last season, replaces Lou Saban, who resigned earlier this month to accept a 10-year contract with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

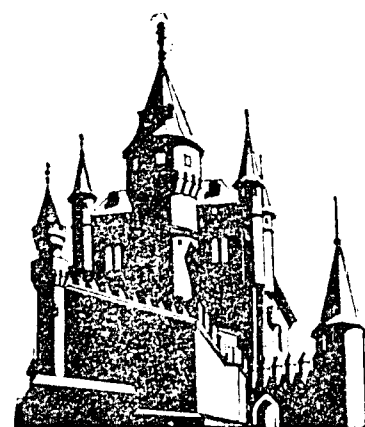

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, referred to the news conference of last Jan. 3 when Saban signed a four-year contract to coach the Terrapins.

"The conference last year was somewhat of a surprise," Elkins said. "This is not a surprise party but we hope it will turn out better than the last one."

Then, turning to Ward at the conclusion of his introduction, Elkins said, "We don't want another one like this for a long time."

Ward, who became a student at Maryland in 1947, said it was a lifelong ambition of his to come back to Maryland as head coach. "And I'd like to end my coaching career here," the 39-year-old native of Elizabeth, N.J., said.

Ward was a 185-pound guard for Maryland under the late Coach Jim Tatum and was noted for his aggressive play while making the All-American teams in 1950 and 1951.

Kansas City, Bills Set For Title Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs and Buffalo Bills put the finishing touches on their game plans in final workouts Friday, leaving only the uncertainties of the weather as an incalculable factor for Sunday's American Football League championship game.

Prospects were that the War Memorial Stadium turf would be frozen when the ground crew removed the tarpaulin just before the start of the game which will be nationally televised by NBC at 1 p.m., EST.

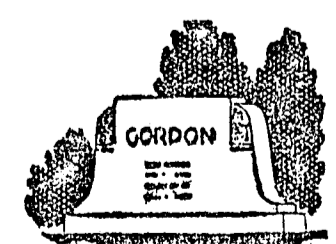

"I can tell you what it will be like," said Coach Joe Collier of the Bills. "I don't believe the temperature will be over 20 and I know the field will be frozen."

That's the way it usually is in Buffalo this time of year."

Collier sent the Bills through a final workout on the Wake Forest campus in Winston-Salem, N.C., before climbing on a plane for the trip home. At Kansas City, the Chiefs also went through a final workout and were scheduled to fly in to Buffalo Saturday.

Neither coach anticipated the weather or a frozen field would be a decisive factor, but Collier pointed out that a slippery field "could take away some of their attack."

"The advantages and disadvantages will probably counter-balance in most instances," Collier explained. "As for a frozen field it might be to our advantage but they've played on them enough."

"The only thing I can see is that a frozen field could take away some of their attack. They have a more varied attack and they have more formations than we do. They're a little fancier than we are."

Coach Hank Stram of Kansas City, however, remained unconcerned.

"Regardless of the attitude, frozen field, snow or rain we still have to win the game on the field," he said. "The conditions are the same for both clubs. You can't worry over those things you have no control over."

"You do have control over the attitude of your club, and that's the only thing we are concerning ourselves with — the artistic approach."

The Chiefs' approach, revolving around quarterback Len Dawson, running backs Curt McKinley and Mike Garrett and receivers Otis Taylor and Chris Burford, brought them to the top of the Western Division for the first time since 1962 with an 11-2-1 record.

The Bills, meanwhile, will be shooting for an unprecedented third straight championship after taking the Eastern Division title with a 9-4-1 record built primarily on the efforts of a strong, veteran defensive unit.

So it'll be the Chiefs' offense against the Bills' defense in a game that will send the winner into the first Super Bowl game against the National League Champion — either Green Bay or Dallas.

UAW Criticizes AFL-CIO For Its Complacency

DETROIT (AP) — A widening policy rift between officials of the AFL-CIO and its largest affiliate — the 1.2-million-member United Auto Workers Union — was out in the open today.

In an unprecedented move, the UAW sharply criticized the parent labor organization Thursday for what it termed complacency and clinging to the status quo.

Disagreements between the two labor giants, the UAW said, go to the heart of the fulfillment of the fundamental aims and purposes of the American labor movement.

Although some observers believed the strongly worded statement left the door open for eventual withdrawal of the UAW from the federation, one informed source said there has been no such discussion among the union's inner circle.

"We don't want our membership to think that we are going along in silence with AFL-CIO policies with which we disagree," the UAW said.

DIAMOND RINGS STOLEN IN SAIGON

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A tray of diamond rings worth $18,000 was stolen Friday from a downtown American post exchange while it was closed because of a bomb scare.

The tray contained 20 rings valued at $900 each.

U.S. authorities said a man telephoned the PX at 2 p.m. and said a bomb, set to go off in five minutes, had been planted in the building. The employee who took the call asked the man to repeat the message. He did and then hung up. The caller's accent indicated he was Vietnamese.

More than a dozen Vietnamese and American employees and about 50 customers were in the building. The manager ordered them out and a bomb disposal team searched the building but found no bomb.

Local Woman Injured Friday West Of Berlin

A young Jacksonville woman was treated for injuries Friday afternoon following a one-car accident on the Old State Road, three miles west of Berlin.

Treated and released from Passavant was Carol Martin, 22, of 7 Newland Lane.

State police said Miss Martin was the lone occupant of an eastbound auto that went out of control after hitting a slick spot on the pavement. The small foreign-made auto slid sideways off the shoulder of the road, down a small embankment and overturned.

Troopers said that the auto slid a total of 140 feet.

The time of the accident was listed as 12:30 p.m.

JURY DETERMINES DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

A Morgan county coroner's jury Friday evening ruled two deaths were accidental.

The first inquest involved the death Dec. 26 of Mrs. Mary Black Taylor, resulting from a car-train accident at the Webster Avenue crossing of the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

The second death involved the asphyxiation of Susan Renee Bunch, 18-month-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilhite of Chambersburg. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Passavant hospital Nov. 20, due to asphyxiation. Three other members of the Wilhite family were also overcome by carbon monoxide and were released from the hospital later. Members of the jury determined the death was accidental.

Coroner John B. Martin presided at both inquests. Those who served on the jury were: W. W. Harris, foreman, Buford Green, foreman, S. W. Peterson, Robert L. Lashmet, David Dickerson and Charles C. Roach.

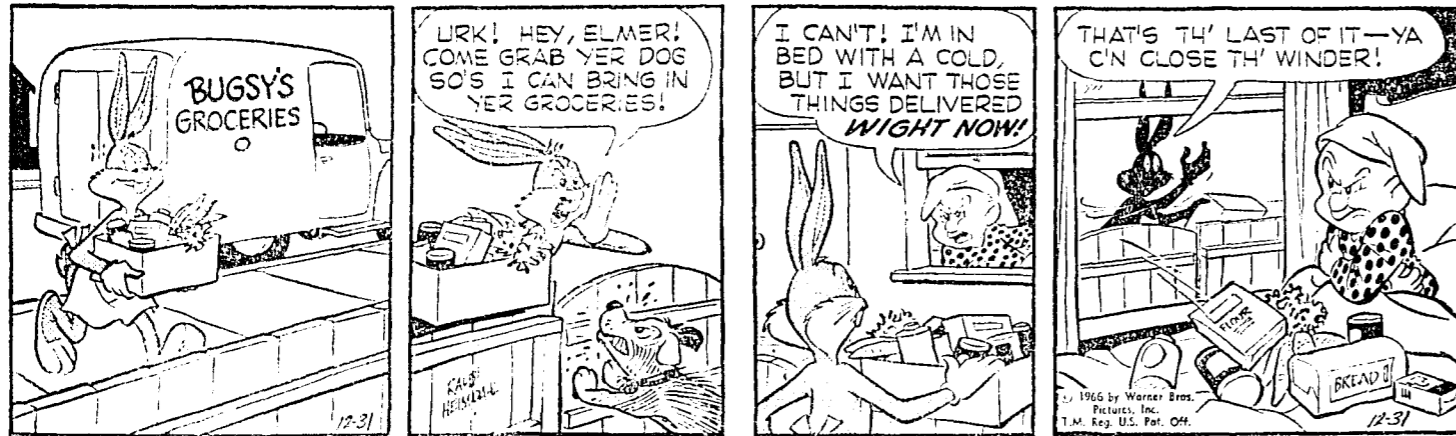

Building historians say the construction of the roof was one of the earliest engineering achievements.
